CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Yesterday was the brightest day since the great disaster. I was throughout the day in the marts where commerce has been temporarily established, and saw no business man despondent or idle. Every one was looking to the future, instead of regretting the past, and it may be safely said that Chicago is already out of her ashes. She has gone to work again in real earnest, and nothing has done more to bring about this desirable result than the action of the banks, which were opened yesterday for the first time for the transaction of business. While commerce has been called to the West Side, the banks have adhered to the South Side, and all, or nearly all, are located in elegant residences in the parts of Wabash and Michigan avenues nearest the burnt district. No more singular spectacle was ever presented than can now be found in these streets of splendid dwellings which have lost their quiet and seclusion, as almost every house bears a rude placard announcing it as the home of trade or finance. Banks have been established in the most sumptuous of these houses, and their improvised counters of rough lumber present striking contrasts to the frescoed ceilings and richly-ornamented walls. In some cases two banks are established in one house. At No. 449 Wabash-avenue were the First National in the parlors and the Fifth National in the basement. The latter found the doors and windows too small to admit its huge safe, so it has been put in the front area, under the marble porch, projecting from the parlor floor, and has been inclosed in a small wooden house, thus practically leaving its assets out of doors. All the leading banks are established within a few doors of each other, and no fact is more encouraging than that there have been no crowds or excitement about them, but business has gone on as though no great calamity had befallen the people. As to these institutions, nothing else was expected after the authoritative announcement of their solvency. But a crush was apprehended at the savings banks which opened to pay each depositor $20. Chief among these is the State Savings Institution, burned out in Lasalle-street, opposite the Court-house, and now established in an elegant cottage residence, No. 869 Wabash-avenue. It was evidently believed every one of its 15,000 depositors would appear. Preparations were made to handle the masses. Extra stairs were built to the porch of the house, a heavy railing, extending far up the street, was constructed to divide the exit from the entrance, and four policemen with an equal number of soldiers were on hand to keep the crowds moving in proper directions. To the astonishment of every one there were no crowds to move. Watching the place an hour in the middle of the day, I saw less than 100 apply, and generally the two tellers had nothing to do. Conversing with those who appeared, I found no one came unless he had urgent need for money, and almost without exception the applicants were mechanics and working men. From what I saw and heard about this and other banks, it is certain that there is to be no run upon the Chicago banks.

Beside these cheering sights about the financial centres, there were others not less encouraging found elsewhere in the city. Anxious as citizens are to retain as many as possible of the former residents here, it is felt to be proper to get rid of as many as possible of the homeless who may become self-sustaining at other places and cannot here. The scene, therefore, at Standard Hall, where hundreds yet apply daily for transportation-passes to distant points, is not disheartening. Hundreds waited in line and were served in turn, after rigid inquiry by the Committee, of which W. H. PULLMAN is Chairman. Among these were many whose appearance denoted that they were in comfortable circumstances before the fire, but who now are utterly destitute, as they barely escaped with life from the devouring torrent of fire. Many of them were clerks in wholesale houses, some were artizans doing good business for themselves, but the bulk were mechanics, working for wages, whose employers have been ruined by the disaster. These, waiting in line for hours, as beggars, for the means of leaving the city, where lately they were prosperous, were more crushed in appearance than any whom I have seen in this desolated city. They are far more saddened than the thousands who appear at the churches where provisions are distributed to all who ask.

This morning I watched this proceeding at the church corner of Wabash-avenue and Peck-court. One gentleman and two ladies were here almoners of the world's charity, and dealt out bread, crackers, and baked beans with wonderful rapidity. They had been giving meat, but it was all gone, and to every applicant they had a kindly word of excuse for the absence of this more substantial food. Most of these people have been fed almost exclusively since the fire on bread or crackers, and naturally there is an intense craving upon part of the thousands for meat. The baked beans are eagerly accepted as a substitute. Although a repulsive looking mess when lifted from barrels and dumped into baskets, or as I saw in several cases, into the hats or aprons of the applicants. There were a good many Levites who had not the politeness to pass by on the other side, but wedged themselves among the applicants at the church gate, to wonder why the people could not take what was given without asking for something else. These fellows were evidently strangers who were roaming about to gratify a questionable curiosity. At this church, as at all, the majority of applicants are women and children belonging to the laboring class, and more than half are foreigners, being chiefly Germans and Scandinavians. In every case I saw, the applicant came for food on behalf of a family, and as this distribution is going on constantly at scores of places throughout the City, some idea of the widespread destitution can be formed. But the fact that no one of all these homeless thousands asks in vain for bread, that no one actually suffers for clothing, although the nights are now extremely chilly, speaks eloquently for the great charity of mankind, and makes the sight of these houseless ones less painful to the spectator. Most of them, indeed, saved from the flames enough wearing apparel for comfort; for I have seen nearly all, and have not seen a hundred who were not thus fortunate. Some saved portions of their household goods, and these are piled in and about churches and school-houses, waiting for the owners to obtain domicils to put them in. Touching as it is in individual cases, and awful as it is in its immensity, there is yet the consolation of seeing that the distress here might be worse, and that the actual suffering has been almost wholly prevented.

Today the burnt district literally swarmed with laborers clearing away the ruins, and especially on the South Side, in the business quarter. In La Salle, Madison, Dearborn, State and other prominent thoroughfares, débris was being cleared from the sites of hundreds of houses, and bricks cleaned for relaying that were hardly cool enough to handle. In several instances walls were already going up. Frame shanties are also going up everywhere in great numbers, for the temporary accommodation of business, and nearly the whole side of Michigan-avenue is now covered with these structures, making that unrivaled street for the time as unsightly as it has hitherto been beautiful. On the North Side building is almost entirely confined to the erection of these shanties on the extreme north. They are intended for housing families. Both north and south, everywhere throughout the burnt district, there is an almost feverish activity, and no more cheering exhibition of the indomitable Western pluck can be imagined than was witnessed today in these desolated regions. As yet only private enterprise is pushing ahead, as no steps have been taken for the reconstruction of any public building. Workmen are prospecting about the Custom-house, which, notwithstanding the defamation to which it has been subjected, withstood the flames better than any other edifice which was equally exposed. It is in far better order than either the Court-house or the Tribune building, and if its windows and roof had been properly guarded against fire, there is no reason to believe that its contents would not have been almost entirely saved. Complaint has been made of the construction of the vault, but the flames ought never to have reached it, and would not if the windows and roof had been properly constructed. What the Government intends to do with what remains of the building has not been determined, and cannot be probably until Congress meets. The work on the municipal buildings will begin as soon as the State refunds the canal money, as the citizens are anxious to give employment to as large a number as possible. As further evidence of the rapid progress of affairs, the street railroads have been put in order, and the cars have gone to State-street on Madison-street, making a connection with those on the former street, which have been running several days, thus making it possible to get to different points without great expenditure of strength on foot or of money if a carriage was called. Hackmen have been making a rich harvest of the disaster, and have been duly excoriated in the public prints, but without effect.

Energy of the People—Attempt to Save the Burning Grain—Dreaded Results of the Fire.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—The city is orderly, and all are hard at work, as business has been brisk in all circles, but especially among insurance men, who are busily engaged in adjusting and paying losses. Nearly all the insurance business of the city was done, even before the great fire, by foreign companies, as the entire insurance capital of Illinois was but about $4,000,000. Nearly all of this has disappeared in the flames of the chief city of the State, and insurance is now conducted entirely by companies of other cities, through resident agents. Today these agents had a meeting to devise a general plan for adjustment of losses, but, without coming to any conclusion, adjourned until to-morrow evening.

Important action was had, however, in the appointment of a committee of three to co-operate with the Committee of the Board of Trade to devise some means to save the grain in the destroyed elevators. Grain in large masses burns very slowly, and ever since the great fire the grain in the five destroyed elevators has been burning at the rate of $10,000 worth per day, without any steps having been taken to stop the fire. Probably the action by the committees will save a large part of this grain, as much of the 1,500,000 bushels in these elevators is yet left unburned. No one can yet make a reliable estimate of what will be saved, as it is not yet certain when the fires will be extinguished, but it is thought about 100,000 bushels can be secured in a tolerably good condition.

Considerable feeling, which is constantly increasing, exists in reference to the location of business during the time which must elapse before the burnt district is rebuilt. Most merchants have located on the West Side, and the Board of Trade rooms, in Canal-street, are crowded with men who have made Chicago a commercial power. A few merchants meet in Standard Hall, on Wabash-avenue, on the South Side, and out of this fact comes the division of the commerce of the city, as a majority of the business men are on the West Side. The action of the authorities in locating a post-office on the South Side, at Wabash-avenue and Peck-court, is severely commented on, and efforts will yet be made to secure its location on the West Side, where four-fifths of the business is claimed to be.

Order is being slowly brought out of chaos in relief matters, owing to the through system adopted by the Chicago Relief Society, working through committees, district superintendents and subordinates. Enrollment is being made of all requiring assistance, and in a few days rolls of all pensioners will be complete. There is fear expressed that habits of idleness are being engendered among the victims, and many cases are cited where men have refused to go to work at exorbitant wages. One gentleman from a neighboring village was quite indignant, because his visit to all the churches, where refugees are housed, in search of female help was fruitless, as women declined to go to the country. He was of the opinion that they had not been burned out enough. Other cases of like character have occurred, and there is a growing determination to drive these drones into exertion. They are, however, the exceptions among the tens of thousands of helpless and homeless. All that most ask is a chance to work and regain the foothold in life they lost in the great fire.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Much anxiety is felt concerning the local insurance companies. It is feared that only one of them will be able to meet its demands in full, and continue business with capital unimpaired.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 18.—The Times made its reappearance this morning in a sheet neatly printed. The leader deprecates the attempt of interested parties to take business below Twelfth-street in the South Division, and says there can be no question about a return to business in the burnt district. In the meantime the convenience of the majority of the inhabitants should be consulted.

The Lower House of the General Assembly, at Springfield, yesterday, passed a bill to refund to the City of Chicago the amount paid by her for deepening the Illinois and Michigan Canal, about $3,000,000, and providing that the sum be expended in rebuilding bridges and public edifices.

RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERERS.

The Contributions of the Chamber of Commerce to be Divided—Subscriptions Pouring In.

The Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, at their meeting yesterday, empowered the President and Treasurer to return suitable acknowledgment expressive of the gratitude of the Chamber for the contributions sent to it from European cities. The Treasurer announced that the Bank of Commerce had offered to pay five per cent. on deposits by the Committee. Rev. Dr. BELLOWS sent a letter recommending that a hospital be erected in Chicago capable of accommodating 3,000 persons. A resolution was adopted directing the Treasurer to announce that contributions will be divided between the Chicago, Wisconsin and Michigan sufferers. A sum of $10,000 was ordered to be placed in the hands of the Committee of Fifteen, to enable them to meet applications for aid that may be made by sufferers arriving in New-York.

The Produce Exchange will hold a meeting today to consider the proposition of the Relief Committee to apply a portion of the collections to the aid of the sufferers by the fires in Wisconsin and Michigan.

A baker of Brooklyn sent 5,000 pounds of bread, and in answer to the announcement Mayor MASON, of Chicago, telegraphed his thanks, but said that it was better to send less perishable articles.

It is stated by the Burlington, Vt., Free Press, that the New-York Central Railroad refused to honor the passes of Gen. SHERIDAN and Mayor MASON to citizens of Chicago wishing to go to their friends and relations in the East.

The Commissioners of Public Charities and Correction are anxious to aid the Chicago sufferers. Any articles of clothing that require repairing, or new material to be made up, may be sent to Warden BRENNAN, at Bellevue Hospital.

A street-car conductor sends one day's pay, and suggests that his example be followed by men in like employment in this City and vicinity.

Beside the cash contributions in Christ Church Parish, goods are being received at the depot at the Church, and dry goods merchants, hatters, and clothiers have contributed liberally. Dr. EWER left yesterday for the West, and will report the condition to the parish. The church will remain open during this week for this purpose.

The following note has been sent to the President of the Board of Public Instruction by the teachers:

> "Acting in accordance with the golden rule, we, the scholars of Male Department, Grammar School No. 10, have collected and forwarded to you, in aid of the Chicago sufferers, the sum of $281."

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The subscriptions at the Mansion House to the Chicago Relief Fund up to last night amount to £24,800. The Lord Mayor had received a telegram of thanks from Mr. MASON, Mayor of Chicago. Additional subscriptions of considerable amounts have been received from Southampton, Dundee and Nottingham. A list was opened in Belfast, yesterday, and in a few minutes £3,000 were subscribed for the relief of Chicago.

A GALA DAY IN BANGOR.

Opening of the European and North American Railway.

Speeches by President Grant, Lord Lisgar, Secretaries Belknap and Robeson, and Others—Fraternal Feeling Between Americans and Canadians—Interesting Ceremonies.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 18.—The celebration of the opening of the European and North American Railway was begun at this end of the line today, will continue on and along the road itself tomorrow, and be concluded at St. John the last of the week. There have been on this opening day a great procession, an elegant lunch, with after-dinner speeches by President GRANT and the members of the Cabinet in his company, and by the Governor-General of Canada and other representative men of the two countries. A military review, a regatta, a trial of fire-engines, public and private receptions and entertainments, and a general illumination of the city after dark, exceeding in brilliancy, extent and tastefulness even that of last night. It is a noteworthy fact that in the entire festivities of the day the Canadians who crowd the City, have participated in common with this people; that the honors of the occasion have been equally divided between the representatives of the two Governments, and that in the decorations along the streets the "Union Jack" has conspicuously floated amicably by the side of the "Stars and Stripes." The token of friendship was repeatedly alluded to in the speeches at the lunch, and the reference invariably heartily cheered, and the one sentiment expressed was peace and good will between English-speaking people. The procession was composed of the militia of the State, ten fine full companies in all, the guests of the city, with President GRANT and the Canadian Governor-General in the positions of prominence; representatives of the Fire Departments of the leading cities of Maine, and last, but most noticeable, a gang of six hundred lumbermen, stalwart and sinewy, uniformed in working garb. This moved through the principal streets, under the triumphal arches, by unbroken lines of decorated houses and buildings, and through the great crowds. In an open space in one of the main streets the school children were grouped in picturesque fashion, about four of the prettiest maidens of Bangor, personifying "America," "England," "Liberty" and "Justice," and when the President reached them they sang a song of welcome to him, and then filled his carriage, and that of the Canadian Chief Magistrate with flowers.

THE LUNCH SPEECH OF PRESIDENT GRANT.

The lunch took place at 1 o'clock, and was attended by several hundred people. At tables on the platform sat President GRANT and Lord LIZGAR, and at the right hand of each of the members of the Cabinet and Congressmen present a Canadian Government official was seated. The lunch over, the Mayor of the city proposed the health of President GRANT, and brought him forward to the front of the platform. He received three rounds of cheers, and then made a speech as follows:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: I congratulate you and the people of the State of Maine and the people of the nation at large upon the occasion which has brought all of us here. It is a matter in which you are particularly interested, and the nation at large, I believe, is almost equally interested with you. I hope that this may prove to you and to us, all that is expected of it in fostering and building up a friendly feeling between us and the people of the same language as ourselves, and who, I think, are equally interested, in the most cordial friendship.

These few but significant words were received by the Canadians in the company with intense enthusiasm, and at the call of the Governor of New-Brunswick they gave a half dozen hearty cheers.

SPEECH OF LORD LIZGAR.

Lord LIZGAR, the Governor-General of Canada, was next presented. He spoke substantially as follows:

I hope you will believe that I am gratified by the reception you have accorded to me as the representative of my Sovereign. Time presses, and there are many avocations allotted for this day. But I cannot imitate entirely the admirable brevity of your President. I have been richly requited for accepting the invitation to meet your President and attend this celebration, by what I have seen and experienced—above all, by the signs which have been lavishly displayed on all sides of a friendly disposition toward the country to which I belong. Now I have often heard that a bitterness toward Great Britain existed in the minds of the American people, [cries of "No," "No,"] and especially in the minds of the people of the New-England States, [renewed cries of "No," "No."] The idea was grievous to all thinking Englishmen. But it was looked upon as an evil that could not be cured, and therefore had to be endured. But I have seen within the past two days a state of feeling which enables me to say that this statement ought to be received with at least considerable modification, and when I see the motto of the hand of England joined to the hand of America, I cannot help thinking that it betokens a feeling that there ought to be a union of hearts as well. [Applause.] From the cordial receptions the Treaty of Washington has received, [applause,] which has most wisely laid down rules for the prevention of difficulties in the future, we may fairly hope that the old animosities have been buried out of sight, and that we are entering upon an era of friendship and good understanding. [Cheers.] Now the treaty has been severely criticised on some points. But for England I will undertake to say that there is not a statesman in the land who would not have been happy to have had his name ennobled by affixing his signature to that arrangement when completed. [Applause.] I do not believe there is a sensible man between the four seas that gird England who does not wish that the honor of completing the treaty had fallen upon the political party in whose ranks he is enrolled. [Cheers.] The honor has fallen in this country to President GRANT, and so long as reason says that peace has its triumphs no less than war, the completion of these negotiations will be mentioned to his honor. [Cheers.] In England the honor has fallen to Mr. GLADSTONE and his colleagues, men distinguished for their rectitude and their desire to deal fairly by the subjects of Great Britain and by foreign Powers, by the wise and eminently successful measures toward Ireland, by the firm neutrality which they maintained during the late war between Prussia and France; and, if I want an instance still more in point, by their conduct throughout the negotiations at Washington. In conclusion, he said he believed there was a sound common sense on both sides of the Atlantic that will induce the settlement of future difficulties, as they arise, by friendly conference and frank explanation.

SPEECH OF THE GOVERNOR OF NEW-BRUNSWICK.

Gov. PERHAM, of this State, followed with a brief speech of welcome, and then the Governor of New-Brunswick was toasted. He echoed the sentiments of the Governor-General, and made altogether a speech which could not fail to captivate the most sensitive and exacting American.

He said that the stars on our flag were never brighter, or the stripes clearer than now, for today America, the two great nations on this continent say, "Slaves touch our lands and their shackles fall." Turning to the President, he said: Mr. President, I honor you as your countrymen do everywhere, for the great work you have done your countrymen and the world, but I cannot forget that you said, on one occasion, words which will live as long as your deeds. If our own beloved Queen were here today, she would echo in greeting your own immortal words: "Let us have peace." [Tumultuous cheering.] He had much to say about the good which was to come from this "union by an iron band," and closed by proclaiming a challenge from Canada to the United States that they should henceforth engage in a holy strife to see which should emulate and surpass the other in all the acts of peace.

SPEECHES OF BELKNAP AND ROBESON.

Secretaries BELKNAP and ROBESON were presented in turn and made brief speeches. The former spoke of the good work of the army in the times of peace, alluding particularly to the prompt, systematic and humane acts of Gen. SHERIDAN and his men at Chicago, and the latter spoke eloquently on the heroism of the men of the navy in peaceful service as well as during war, quoting WILLIAMS and TALBOT, and furthermore made extended allusion to the Washington Treaty. He said on this point:

Your honored Senator and my friend struck a key-note which vibrates in every American heart when he said that by the transactions of last year, and the common consent of the two Governments, there had been placed before men a principle, which, if it terminate favorable, will make war impossible among civilized men. Now, these two Governments, both of Anglo-Saxon blood, are the leaders of Christian civilization before the world. Theirs is the duty to stand forth as the champions of this new idea, which shall go on swelling until it pervades the whole world.

These sentiments were cheered for some minutes, and then Mr. ROBBSON created considerable sensation by adding:

The two nations of Anglo-Saxon blood are now united, remember that. If the time should ever come when in the cause of humanity, of right, of freedom, they are called upon to stand together against the world in arms, they are a race and in a mood to meet the crisis without shrinking from danger and without quailing in the presence of earthly power.

Other speeches were made by Hon. D. TUPPER, President of the Canadian Privy Council; Speaker BLAINE, Judge RICE, of Augusta, President of the Maine Central Railroad, who pointedly urged free trade between Canada and the States, and Mr. S. N. STOCKWELL, of the Boston Journal. After lunch, the exercises closed with cheers, proposed by the Canadians, for President GRANT and the United States, and by the Americans for Queen VICTORIA and England and Canada.

After the exercises were over the President was driven to the Centre Park. A private party to the President, given by Mayor DALE, closed the festivities of the day, which all agree passed off in a manner worthy the occasion.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 10, via HAVANA, Oct. 18.—The pronunciamiento attempted here on the 1st inst. was promptly suppressed. PORFIRIO DIAZ is reported to be on the road between Puebla and Vera Cruz at the head of 2,000 men. The national forces at Orizaba will march against him.

THE FISHING TROUBLES.

English Steamer Reported Off Cape Ann—Preparations for the Reception of the Horton.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 11.—The latest news in regard to the Gloucester excitement is brought by the revenue cutter Hamlin. She reports that she spoke a fisherman who had been spoken by a gun-boat on Tuesday at 3 A. M., and asked if she had seen the Horton. He described the gun-boat as a long low-rigged schooner of about 1,000 tons. There is but very little doubt that this was the steamer from the navy-yard, and that her size was exaggerated. The Hamlin also reports speaking to another fisherman, who saw a bark-rigged steamer on Monday night lying eight miles south-east of Eastern Point. Collector RUSSELL thinks that this report is reliable and gives more credence to the matter. The Hamlin has coaled, and is ready to start at a moment's notice. Should the Horton arrive there will be a reception. A salute will be fired, and there will be other acts of jubilation in Gloucester to testify the approbation of the fishermen for the act of recapture. A subscription for the purpose was taken up yesterday and over $600 obtained.

Arrival of the Horton at Gloucester.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The schooner E. A. Horton arrived at Gloucester this evening, and a grand reception was given to her crew by the citizens of the town.

THE TRIENNIEL CONVENTION.

Thirteenth Day—Report in Reference to the Organization of a Court of Appeals—Concurrence of the House of Bishops in Various Matters.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18.—A message was received today in the Episcopal House of Deputies from the House of Bishops, non-concurring in the action of the clerical and lay delegates relating to a royalty on the new Hymnal, and asking the appointment of a Committee of Conference. The resolutions were received from the House of Bishops authorizing the use of a new Hymnal, and the House of Deputies struck out the royalty provision of ten per cent. to meet the expenses of the Convention, and made the publication free, to be printed and published as the Book of Common Prayer. A motion that the House recede from its action was lost, and the Chair then appointed the Committee of Conference on the part of the House.

Rev. Dr. HAIGHT, from the Committee on Canons, to which was referred the question of revising the report of the Special Committee on the Judicial System of the Church, made in 1856, and draft of canon providing for the organization of a Court of Appeals, reported that the proposed action would be in conflict with the Constitution as it now stands, and asked to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Mr. HILL BURGWIN submitted a minority report on the subject. They cannot believe the framers of the Constitution intended to place it out of the power of the General Convention to establish a Court of final appeal to review and correct the errors of a Diocesan Court upon questions involving the doctrine and ritual of the Church. The Constitution provides, article six, that "a Convention of each diocese may institute a mode of trying presbyters and deacons." These few words could not contain a grant of authority so comprehensive and exclusive that no power is left in the Church at large to guard her faith and doctrine from the errors and contradictions of the different Diocesan Courts. A trial involving facts might be left to a Diocesan Court, but when these facts involve questions of faith, doctrine or worship of the Church, it concerns not only the accused but the Church and all her members. The report concludes with a resolution that article six of the Constitution be amended to read as follows:

> The mode of trying Bishops shall be provided by the General Convention. The Court appointed for that purpose shall be composed of Bishops only. In every diocese the mode of trying presbyters and deacons may be instituted by the Convention of the diocese; provided that the General Convention may establish an Appellate Court for review of all question arising and determined in a Diocesan Court which involves the doctrine or ritual of the Church or construction of the Constitution or canons of the General Convention. None but Bishops shall pronounce sentence of admonition, suspension or degradation from the ministry on any clergyman whether a bishop, presbyter or deacon.

Action on the subject was deferred to Friday.

A message was received from the House of Bishops, concurring in the appointment of a Joint Committee to prepare an address to the Church in Ireland; also, a message concurring in the proposal of the Deputies to apply the contributions collected in the parishes throughout the country on Sunday last, the 15th inst., to the relief of the destitute clergy and people of Chicago; also, a message concurring in the action of this House, relating to the formation for admission of the new diocese in Pennsylvania.

The order of the day, the consideration of canon 20, title 1., entitled "Of the use of the Book of Common Prayer," as amended and reported for adoption by the Committee on Canons, was taken up, and after discussion, the canon adopted as reported.

Adjourned to 10 o'clock to-morrow.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Fishery War in Massachusetts—Reasons for the Removal of the Russian Minister—Meeting of the Civil Service Commission.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The commotion among the fishermen of Gloucester, in consequence of the affair of the schooner Horton, has caused sentiments here to set in a peculiar direction and to suggest a very characteristic explanation. It is tersely styled "Butler's muss," and if the exploit of the fishermen at Gaysborough and BUTLER's lecture at Philadelphia are not two things that can safely be put together, then some people here, who are usually credited with good judgment, are very much mistaken. Neither the State nor Treasury Departments has received any intelligence of this affair, and the Customs officers at Boston and Gloucester acted on their own responsibility and without orders from here in using the revenue cutters for the service of watching the English gun-boat and causing the escape of the schooner. Secretary BOUTWELL has very grave doubts of the legality of the use of the revenue cutters for such purposes, and views the action of the Customs officers in proceeding with the inauguration of a war without even apprising the Departments here of any of the facts in the case, as of exceedingly doubtful propriety. The fact that the Customs officers who have thus hastily acted are supposed to be in the interests of Gen. BUTLER does not help their case so far as the final result is concerned. It is not believed here in official quarters that the fastest gun-boats will attempt to take the vessel back if she has escaped into the American waters; while the sentiment is unanimous that if the British Government makes a demand for the surrender of the vessel to await the adjudication of the Admiralty Court, it must at once be complied with.

THE RUSSIAN MINISTER TROUBLE.

Numerous Democratic papers are persisting in the statement that the recall of M. CATACAZY, the Russian Minister, was demanded because of his personal differences with Secretary FISH. There are gossip and scandal enough about this Russian to fill the side of a newspaper, and unfortunately most of it is true; but it was not the cause of the demand for his recall. He was convicted by positive proof, and by his own admissions, of having written and inspired articles in the public Press hostile to the Administration and its foreign policy, as well as disrespectful of the President personally—than which there could be no graver breach of diplomatic privileges, and for which his recall was demanded. Had it not been complied with, he would have been furnished with his passport.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The Civil Service Commission began their work regularly today, and made some progress in the discussion of the special matter under consideration, which is the character and nature of the suggestions and recommendations which are to be submitted to the President. Mr. CATTRELL will join the Commission at the close of the week, but Mr. MEDELL is not expected for some time.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FELIX R. BRUNOT, Esq., of the Indian Peace Commission, arrived in the city this evening. He has definitely and positively declined the position of Commissioner of Indian affairs, and it is now in contemplation to offer it to another well-known and capable gentleman.

Intelligence from Columbia, S. C., states that as one effect of the warning notice to the Kuklux, thirty of the band in Spartanburg County, have voluntarily surrendered to the United States Marshal. More are coming. Information has also been received here to the effect that SHOTWELL and the others, who are now confined in the Albany Penitentiary, are now in a very melting mood, and entirely willing to tell all they know, which is a great deal. Incarceration has brought them to their senses.

The single-scull race arranged between Messrs. BIGLIN, BLEW, and LEARY, to come off on the Potomac, at Georgetown, today, was not rowed, and has been indefinitely postponed.

REDUCTION IN THE REVENUE SERVICE.

From December, 1865, to January, 1867, there were 5,850 revenue officers in the service; in 1867 to 1868 there were 5,720, and on the first of the present month there were 4,260—showing a reduction since the first mentioned date of 1,590. This reduction includes eight assessors and eight collectors, whose annual expenses averaged $10,000 each.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—1 A. M.—The barometer has risen since Tuesday night from the Middle States and lower lakes south-westward to the Gulf. It has fallen decidedly over the upper lakes and the north-west. The highest pressure extends, with light winds, between the Ohio River and the Blue Ridge. North-westerly winds have prevailed on the New-England coast, and diminishing northerly winds, veering to north-east, in the Gulf. Increasing south-westerly winds are reported from the other Lakes to the Missouri River. The temperature has risen in the north-west, so far as heard from; it has fallen on the Middle and Eastern States and Ohio Valley. Clear weather continues very generally at all stations, excepting Southern Florida.

PROBABILITIES.

The barometer will probably continue high on the Atlantic and Gulf States, rising somewhat in New-England, with clear, cool weather succeeding the freeze of to-night. The area of low barometer will probably extend from the upper lakes south and eastward with increasing cloudiness.

BRAZIL.

Abolition of Slavery—The Bill Passed by a Large Majority.

The steam-ship Alps, which arrived here last night from Rio Janeiro, reports that two hours before sailing from that port the bill for the abolition of slavery in the Brazils passed the Senate by an overwhelming majority.

A Mysterious Shooting Case—A Woman Shot.

A case of accidental shooting was reported at the Fourteenth Precinct Station-house, last night, presenting some mysterious phases, which will require a thorough investigation by the Police authorities. ANNIE CHASE, aged twenty-four years, and residing at No. 216 Elizabeth-street, rear house, was found in a room she there occupies as a lodging, by officers KELLY and MITCHELL, at 9 o'clock last night, lying in bed and in great suffering from a pistol-shot wound in her left side. When the officers entered the room and spoke to the girl, she told them that a man named HOGAN, who resides at Pompton, New-Jersey, is in the habit of visiting her, and that between 9 and 10 o'clock, yesterday morning, he was sitting at the table with a pistol in his hand, which was accidentally discharged and the ball entered her side. She says that the shooting was purely accidental, and that she and HOGAN were the best of friends. Dr. ROBERTS was called in to attend her, but was unable to trace the ball. The unfortunate young woman was sent to Bellevue Hospital, where she is lying in a critical state. The authorities are trying to find HOGAN, who has mysteriously disappeared, and who has so far baffled all efforts at discovery.

CITY REFORMATION.

Mr. O'Conor Devotes all His Energies to the Good Work.

Important Letter from Deputy Controller Green.

He Demands the Pay-Roll of the Department of Parks.

Shameful Mismanagement of the Present Commissioners.

Expenditures at the Rate of $600,000 a Year.

Another Modification of the Foley Injunction Asked For.

A reporter of the TIMES called yesterday upon Judge EDWARDS PIERREPONT and learned from him that he had presented the Attorney-General's letter to Mr. CHARLES O'CONOR, at his office, between 11 and 12 A. M. Mr. O'CONOR read it carefully, and replied that he was then quite at leisure, that he would take up the matter and pursue it with all the brains, energy and intellect that time had left him. A long conversation then took place between these two eminent lawyers, in the course of which Judge PIERREPONT mentioned that the Attorney-General had verbally given full authority to Mr. O'CONOR to associate with himself such counsel as he chose. Mr. O'CONOR replied that he would certainly do so after mature reflection on the subject.

Judge PIERREPONT repeated to the reporter of the TIMES his deep conviction of the importance of the advantage gained, saying that he considered it by far the best movement which the Committee of Seventy have made since their creation. There are various indications which it would not be proper to publish that Mr. A. OAKEY HALL thinks so, too, and that he will shortly propose very important concessions to the reforming citizens. It is even whispered that he and SWEENY are preparing to drop TWEED, and, in any case, to use no violence or unfair proceedings in the coming election.

THE PUBLIC PARKS.

Expenditures at the Rate of $600,000 Per Year for Their Care and Maintenance—Total Expenditures in Seventeen Months, $3,128,543 87—The Pay-Rolls Demanded by Mr. Green.

On the 7th inst., the Treasurer of the Department of Public Parks addressed a communication to Deputy Controller GREEN, in answer to a letter from Mr. GREEN, dated 5th inst., stating that the Finance Department had no power to call for any report of expenditures by the Department of Public Parks, yet he, the Treasurer, was quite willing to give information that, from the 1st January, 1871, to the 1st October, 1871, the sum of $2,510,944 71 had been expended by the Department.

Yesterday Mr. GREEN transmitted to the Department of Public Parks the following communication:

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE,
CONTROLLER'S OFFICE,
NEW-YORK, Oct. 17, 1871.

To the Department of Public Parks:

I have this day deposited to the credit of your Department the sum of $100,000, being the avails of assessment bonds, and take this occasion to acknowledge the receipt of a letter over the signature of the Treasurer of your Department, in answer to mine of the 5th inst. calling for information relative to certain expenditures which discloses a condition of affairs in your Department that requires comment and attention.

The total appropriations made by the Board of Apportionment for the care and government of the Central Park for the year 1871 is the sum of $186,600; and this is all that your Department is authorized to expend for those purposes. The President of your Department is a member of the Board of Apportionment, and was present and assented to this appropriation.

It appears by your communication that, notwithstanding your Department is expressly limited by the law to the above-named sum, it has expended in nine months of this year, to Oct. 1, 1871, on the Central Park, the sum of $365,068 14, and on the other parks, the sum of $80,854 51, making a total sum of $445,922 65. At this rate, the expenditures for the year would reach nearly the sum of $600,000. It will be recollected that this is for the care and government of the parks, only; that is, for the annual running expenses of the parks, and is in addition to the sum of $1,540,866 54 already expended, as shown by your communication on the parks, in the same nine months.

As appears by the statement of your Department, the amount expended on the parks in seventeen months and ten days, being the time in which they have been in the charge of your Department, is $2,319,867 24, and for the expenses of their care and government, $808,676 63. It is not at this time proposed to enter upon the question as to the manner in which these great sums of money have been expended, nor to speak of the character of the results attained. My present duty involves the inquiry as to the lawful authority of the Department of Parks to make these expenditures, and of this Department to provide money to meet them. Some of the moneys furnished by this Department to the Department of Parks are to be refunded from assessments on property, others from taxation, and others from the avails of bonds. If the Parks Department, without lawful warrant, applies money furnished by this Department to purposes other than those for which they were provided, great confusion must result.

In your communication, above alluded to, it is stated that "there is no power vested in the Controller's, or any other Department, to call upon us to make a report on any subject." Is there not some misapprehension here? Is the Finance Department left by the law powerless to ascertain whether funds have been applied to purposes other than those contemplated by the law, and if so, to take measures to prevent it, or the payment of improper claims, or to keep expenditures within the limits of the law? In this connection, I respectfully call to the notice of the Department of Parks, the following sections of the so-called new charter:

> SEC. 33. The Finance Department shall have control of all the fiscal concerns of the Corporation, and of the appropriations made for carrying on the business of the Corporation. It shall prescribe the forms of keeping and rendering all City accounts, and the manner in which all salaries shall be drawn, and the mode by which all creditors, officers and employes of the Corporation shall be paid.
>
> SEC. 34. All accounts rendered to or kept in the other Departments, shall be subject to the inspection and revision of the officers of this Department, and it shall settle and adjust all claims in favor of or against the Corporation, and all accounts in which the Corporation is concerned as debtor or creditor.
> SEC. 39. All moneys drawn from the City Treasury shall be upon vouchers for the expenditure thereof, examined and allowed by the auditor, and approved by the Controller and filed in his office.

Will the Department of Parks have the kindness to send to this office the last pay-rolls of each class that have been paid by that Department, and much oblige yours, very respectfully, ANDREW H. GREEN,

Deputy Controller.

Payment of Laborers.

The Deputy Controller has handed over to the Department of Public Parks another warrant for $100,000 to be used for the payment of laborers.

Another deputation of six men, employed in the Department of Public Works, waited on Mr. GREEN yesterday to demand their pay, which now six weeks in arrears. They received the same answer that all the other deputations have—no funds available for the purpose. In writing about the City laborers, yesterday, we inadvertently stated that money to pay the "pipe men" had been advanced by the Tenth National Bank. This was a mistake. The money was advanced to these men by the officers of several banks, who did so at the personal solicitation of Mr. GREEN. The only security given was the pay-roll of the men, whereon they assigned their claims against the City to officers of the banks as trustees. The Tenth National being the "Bank of the Ring," of course, had no part in this transaction. Yesterday, Mr. CADY paid off about 400 additional laborers.

THE FOLEY INJUNCTION.

Application for its Further Modification Made by the Board of Public Works—The Matter Adjourned to Saturday.

In the case of JOHN FOLEY against The Mayor, &c., an application has been made to have the injunction modified so as to permit money to be raised for the use of the Board of Works in carrying on the Croton Aqueduct improvements.

The affidavit of Mr. TRACY, Engineer of the Department, on which the application is founded, has been already published in full in the TIMES.

Mr. LAWRENCE, who appeared on behalf of Mr. FOLEY, opened the proceedings on the motion before Judge BARNARD in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, by asking for an adjournment of the argument.

Mr. BARTLETT, who appeared as counsel for the Board, and in favor of the motion, said: If your Honor will guarantee that the insurance companies shall be safe, and that our City will not be in the condition that Chicago now is, then I will consent that these works on the Croton water-pipes may be suspended. The modification asked for on the part of the Department of Public Works is a modification which was ordered to be inserted by your Honor in the oral opinion which you delivered, but by the omission of counsel who took out the injunction it was not inserted. On that occasion I did not appear for the Department of Public Works, but only for Mr. TWEED personally. It is the province of the Corporation Counsel to look after it, but he is now out of town, and I have been retained by the Department to appear for them on this motion.

Mr. LAWRENCE—If the counsel wants my personal guarantee for the insurance companies, I am perfectly willing to give it. The City of New-York is in no more dangerous condition to-day than it has been for the last ten years, and all this attempt to get up outside sympathy in regard to this modification is something which is, to use a current expression of the day, entirely "too thin." The application is based on a voluminous affidavit made by Mr. TRACY, Chief Engineer of the Croton Aqueduct Department, an affidavit which has evidently taken the other side some time to draw, and it is no more than right and fair that we should have an opportunity to prepare affidavits. This is a question of importance, not only to the City and to the Department, but to every person residing in the City of New-York, and is not a matter to be turned off on a five minutes' investigation or discussion. I ask, therefore, that the matter stand over until Monday, in order that I may have an opportunity to prepare affidavits in reply.

Judge BARNARD—I think you had better say an earlier day than Monday. There are quite a number of men to be tried for murder next week, and I shall be pretty busy then.

Mr. BARTLETT—We will say Saturday. I will not, however, let the occasion slip without noticing the very uncalled-for language of the counsel in regard to attempts to get up outside sympathy, (excitedly.) What does the gentleman mean?

Mr. LAWRENCE—He means exactly what he said.

Mr. BARTLETT—Have we attempted to get up outside sympathy? It is they and they alone who have done it, and I am glad that they have come here, and to admit that it has proved "too thin"—classical language, derived from one of the old Lord Chancellors of England on a somewhat similar occasion to this, although it is now considered a cockney phrase—but it is classical language. Now that they have found out that it is "too thin," I wish to say that we have made no attempt to get up outside sympathy, that I have come here simply to ask to have inserted in the injunction the exception which your Honor decreed in the oral opinion should be inserted; and I wish no more such language applied to us, because it is wholly unjustified. I have made no attempt to get up outside sympathy, and have spoken to no human being on the subject, with the exception of my client and witness. We come here on the law, and that is all we want; and on it we stand. And I repeat, that the language of the learned counsel is uncalled for and unbecoming.

Mr. LAWRENCE—I am perfectly willing you should say that. I mean precisely what I say, and meant precisely what I said. This is not a question for declamation, and if the gentleman thinks he can gain anything by this style of argument, before your Honor or any other Court, I am perfectly willing he should try it. But the gentleman has come here on the facts. Here is a voluminous affidavit of Mr. TRACY, which your Honor can see from simply looking at it it was impossible for us to answer without more time than that accorded to us. The papers were placed in my hands night before last, about 7½ o'clock, having been served on Mr. BARLOW that afternoon. I made an effort conscientiously, yesterday, to draw the affidavits which were necessary to answer, but it was impossible for me to do so. I am making no more than an ordinary application as counsel engaged in this case in good faith, and, as I said before, I don't think your Honor will be influenced by the declamation or the vehement remarks of my learned friend. I ask that the case may stand over to Saturday, if your Honor thinks that you cannot attend to it on Monday.

Mr. BARTLETT—Your Honor, they will be equally unable to answer the affidavit, no matter what length of time is allowed them, and we ask to be heard as soon as it suits your Honor's convenience.

Mr. LAWRENCE—If that be so, it will be our misfortune, and not our fault. We shall try to take care of our side of the case.

Judge BARNARD—I shall hear it on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Another of Garvey's Forgeries.

In that little pamphlet published by the NEW-YORK TIMES, explaining and commenting on the Controller's accounts, there appeared these two items to the account of I. G. PENCHARD:

1869.
Oct. 13—Paid for repairs on civil Courts and offices	$37,413 00
Oct. 22—Paid for repairs on County buildings	34,584 69
Total	$71,997 69

At that time it was believed that I. G. PENCHARD was a man of straw, invented by the persons who perpetrated the various frauds. But it has since transpired that he was an actual existence, and that he is or was an architect in the employ of ANDREW J. GARVEY. He was, at the time of the publication of his name, greatly exasperated, as he never had any connection with the City Government at any time other than his relations with Mr. GARVEY necessitated, never signed any warrant or assignment or bill of any kind, and was in no way connected with any of the frauds. He even went so far in his anger as to consult legal advice as to whether he could sue Mr. GARVEY for libel, or in any way punish him for the stigma he had placed on his name. A reporter of the TIMES went to see him, and to ascertain the facts more fully; but Mr. PENCHARD stated that he was unwilling to make any communications except to the Committee of Seventy, and that, if they sent for him, he should have no objection to state all he knew. The reporter learned, however, during the visit, that friends of Mr. GARVEY, who might be considered "posted" as to his whereabouts, believed him to be in the City of St. John's, in the island of Newfoundland. As he has, apparently, been guilty of forgery and obtaining money feloniously, it might possibly be a good thing if Mr. O'CONOR sent a detective after him in the name of the State.

Payment of Taxes.

The sum of $18,041 18 was received for personal taxes yesterday. The real estate books are not yet ready.

Where is Hall's Voucher Book?

During Gov. HOFFMAN's administration as Mayor of this City, he never signed a warrant, it is said, without having recorded it in a book kept in his office for that purpose. HALL abandoned this excellent and safe check against fraud. Why? everybody asks.

The Broome-Street Widening Swindle.

The owners of property assessed in the Broome-street widening scheme held a meeting at 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, at the corner of Wooster and Broome. Col. J. D. WILLIAMSON presided. The Chairman, in a stirring appeal, stated the facts of the case, making strong reference to the swindle perpetrated on the owners of property in this neighborhood. He characterized the decision of Judge CARDOZO as unjust, inasmuch as he confirmed the assessment secretly, after having previously stated he would not do so, but would reserve his decision. He also alluded to the unjustness of the assessment, the large amount of the award, and the enormous charges made by the Commissioners for the opening.

After a discussion of the subject, in which all present seemed to be convinced of the outrageous character of the assessment, it was resolved that the owners of property assessed raise money and contest the matter in Court, with the view of having said assessment set aside. A committee, consisting of Messrs. PURCELL, WILLIAMSON, MARCHANT, STERNE and BURKE, was directed to employ counsel forthwith, to have the assessment set aside if possible. A large sum of money was raised on the spot, and the members are determined to push the matter through. They have already consulted a distinguished lawyer, who is of opinion that the assessment will be set aside.

ENGLISH AFFAIRS.

The Labor Question—The Newcastle Strike—Influence of the International—The Masters and the League—Imported Labor—The Masters' View—The Real Question at Issue.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 8, 1871.

Now that Parliament is up and there is a lull in politics, the labor question is forcing itself unpleasantly into notice. The strike of the engineers at Newcastle, which began last May, shows no sign of coming to an end. A partial strike of ship-carpenters on the Clyde has been met by a "lock-out" on the part of the masters, and various other strikes are either threatened or in operation in different parts of the country. In most cases, the question at issue is one of wages, but it is evident that the leaders of the Unions are now concentrating their attention on what is called the Nine-hours Movement—that is, nine hours as the normal limit of the day's labor. In the United States, the demand is for a day of eight hours, but for the present nine hours is what is asked for here. This is the object of the Newcastle strike, but the agitation is not of a merely local character. It is part of a general campaign which has been planned by a central committee in London, on the instigation and advice of some of the members of the International Association. In April last the engineers of Sunderland struck for nine hours, and as the employers were at the time financially weak, and had some orders in hand which they could not afford forego, the strike was almost immediately successful. Flushed with victory, the Union next directed a similar attack upon the employers of Newcastle, but here they met with more substantial resistance. The movement was not conducted directly by the Union, but by an organization expressly established for the purpose, under the name of "The Nine-Hours League," the President of which is Mr. BURNETT, an operative engineer, of undoubted energy and ability. He is a fluent and vigorous speaker, and is also not devoid of literary skill. The North countrymen are proverbially both long-headed and hard-headed; in fact the Lowland Scotch and the Northumbrians are practically one race, and speak almost the same dialect. They are a "canny" people, as they call it, but when once they have committed themselves to a decisive course of action they are as stubborn and persistent as a bull-dog's bite or the clutch of a hungry kite. The masters have, therefore, been confronted in this instance by an assailant exceptionally strong in good leadership and in its own endurance, and very difficult either to reason with or to coerce. In the beginning of May the League issued a circular requesting that the work hours should be reduced from fifty-nine to fifty-four hours a week, or allowing for the Saturday half holiday, from ten to nine hours a day.

THE MASTERS AND THE LEAGUE.

With one exception the employers simply answered "No." The exception was Mr. GEORGE ROBERT STEPHENSON, the descendant of the great engineer of that name, who addressed a letter to his men assuring them of his sympathy with their claims and interest in their welfare, and pointing out a variety of reasons why he could not comply with their demand. The result has been that Mr. STEPHENSON's factory has been excluded from the operation of the strike, and his men have continued at work without intermission, up to the present moment. The name of STEPHENSON is undoubtedly a good one to conjure with on Tyneside. "GEORDIE" is the hero of Newcastle, and every pitman and engineer feels that he is one of themselves, and that his family has a peculiar claim on their affection and respect. But Mr. STEPHENSON's success with his men, is also due to his own conciliatory attitude. At the outset, the masters undoubtedly took a false step. To a proposal for a conference they replied through a lawyer who was particularly obnoxious to the men as the political agent of the Conservative Party, that most of their body were out of town, but that they would soon consider the suggested meeting. The men resented this mode of communication, and those employed in one large factory at once struck work. The masters made this a reason for refusing a conference and for adhering to the previous "No," as a final answer. The truth is that neither side was then in the mood for negotiations. Each was confident in its strength, and anxious, not for a mere settlement of the dispute, but for a decisive victory over its antagonist. The masters hoped to crush the League; the League hoped to reduce the masters to a state of submission, which should confirm its influence over the men, and which would afterward be turned to good account in pressing for further concessions. Looking back on the matter the masters would now probably confess that in the too haughty and uncompromising position which they assumed at the outset, they played into the hands of their opponents. The men's blood was now up, and on the 29th of May the strike became general. There is usually a week or fortnight's holiday about this time, on account of the races and the jollifications which accompany and follow these sports. The employers apparently imagined that when the festive season was over, the men would be tired of spending money and earning none, and would be glad to return to work. They opened their doors, and were ready to smile a welcome to the truants. But none of the truants appeared. There were, however, some indications that a party of the men were not indisposed to listen to a compromise, and that a good deal of pressure had to be applied by the League in order to preserve a compact and resolute front before the enemy. When the strike was two months old, the masters saw that they must either tempt their men back by some concessions, or try to fill their places with foreign workmen. They offered to reduce the weekly hours of work from fifty-nine to fifty-seven, with a liberal arrangement as to overtime. Again there were symptoms of wavering on the part of the men, and the leaders of the League resolutely refused to submit the question to a vote by ballot.

IMPORTED LABOR.

The League kept its hold on the men, and there was now no alternative but for the masters to shut up their shops altogether or to import laborers from other quarters. They dispatched their agents throughout England and Scotland, to Belgium, Prussia and Sweden, in search of engineers. There was no difficulty in procuring hands, for good wages were offered, as well as a variety of small privileges. The difficulty was not to get men but to keep them when they arrived. By an act of Parliament, passed this year, "picketing," with a view to coercion, is made a criminal offense. "Picketing" means the posting of pickets or sentinels at the gates of a factory which the men have left on strike, so as to intercept the "knobsticks" or "black sheep" who may be disposed to accept work on conditions forbidden by the Union. Of course the men argue that the pickets rely exclusively on moral suasion in their arguments with the knobsticks, but it is easy to conceive a kind of moral suasion which amounts to pretty much the same thing as physical coercion. The pickets might do no violence themselves, but their presence has usually a menace of violence at some future time. In the course of this Newcastle strike a good many "pickets" have been taken up and sentenced to two months' imprisonment, but this did not put a stop to the practice, the men arguing, perhaps, that while a strike was going on they might as well be lodged and fed at the expense of the public as at their own cost, or that of the Union. Moreover, it was evident that without actually bringing themselves into collision with the Police, they were able to get at the newcomers and to persuade them in one way or another, that they had better depart with all convenient speed. They worked upon their class-feeling; they offered them money to pay their expenses; they assured them that the masters were only using them as a temporary convenience, and that they would be cast adrift as soon as the strike was over; and then they crowned the argument by pointing out the extreme discomfort and even danger of remaining where they were in the midst of a furious and desperate population. The foreigners were at first easily overcome. They did not understand English, especially the English of Tyneside, and the wild looks and emphatic gestures of their interlocutors conveyed very distinctly the threats which the Englishmen were too wary to express in so many words. The employers fitted up their factories as barracks, where the men slept as well as worked, surrounded them with barricades and patrols of police, but still the ubiquitous agents of the League continued to penetrate the barriers and spirit away the carefully-guarded artisans. As fast as the new men arrived a number of them were sure to be enticed or frightened away by the Unionists. It was the great excitement of the town to see a body of imported operatives shipped off again amid the cheers of the men on strike, who bid adieu to them with bands and banners. The employers, however, did not lose heart, and although a large percentage of their foreign hands were carried off, the majority remained. The Scotch and English workmen were also not so easily frightened off; and in one way or another the factories have been kept going for the last two months, but of course not with their full complement of workmen. It must also be admitted that in quality the new men are not much to boast of, though it is said they are gradually being trained and disciplined into something better.

THE MASTERS' VIEW.

The objection of the masters to the nine hours movement, in the first instance, applies to the increase of wages which it involves. A reduction of five working hours a week is, of course, as far as the employers are concerned, an increase of wages to a proportionate extent. But the additional expenditure would not stop here. In order to keep up the present rate of production more men would have to be engaged; and more men would necessitate the erection of larger premises and of fresh machinery. Moreover, there would be a heavy loss through the machinery, which is very costly, and is revolutionized by new inventions at intervals of a few years, having to remain idle for so many hours during the week. The masters would not have objected to grant an increase of wages, even to the extent of a full equivalent for the five hours demanded; but they objected to shorten the hours, (beyond the two hours a week they were ready to concede,) first because, while wages fluctuate with demand, shortened hours do not alter, and if once allowed, cannot be recalled; and second, because they suspected the men of seeking for diminished hours merely as a step toward a demand for a further advance of wages. Sir W. ARMSTRONG (the inventor of the breech-loading and shunt guns, which bear his name,) has been the mouthpiece of the masters on this occasion, and has argued the matter very ably. Mr. BARNETT, the President of the League, replied to Sir W. ARMSTRONG.

REAL QUESTION AT ISSUE.

The real question which lies at the bottom of the dispute is the object of the men in seeking a reduction of hours. Do they want the rest and leisure for its own sake, or for the sake of ulterior designs? Mr. BARNETT assures the employers that the men, refreshed and invigorated by the repose of shorter hours, will work harder during the time they are employed. The plea that the value of a man's labor is not to be measured by the time he spends on it is plausible, and to a certain extent true. It is quite possible that a man might do more and better work in nine hours than in ten hours, and the same argument might apply to eight hours as compared with nine, or seven as compared with eight. Everything depends on the spirit in which a man labors. If the Newcastle engineers chose, they could probably produce quite as good a result in the reduced hours which they seek as under the old hours, and, except in regard to plant standing idle, the masters would be no losers. Indeed, the difficulty as to plant might also be met by an arrangement for overtime. Mr. MUNDELLA says he believes the men are sincere in their declaration that they do not wish to check the rate of production; and it is possible that this may be the case. But I find it very difficult to take this view. The League is only an offshoot of the Unions, and the great object of the Unions is to surround production with all manner of restraints and restrictions, so that it shall not be accomplished too fast or by a small number of workmen. Their theory is that the amount of work to be done is a fixed quantity, and that in the interest of the operatives, it is necessary to spread it thin in order to make it go far. If you look at the rules of the Unions you will find that they are designed so as to prevent the competition of superior skill and industry among the work people, to keep back the pace of production so as to suit the slowest, stupidest and idlest, and to establish a dead-level of work and wages. Piece-work is denounced as disgraceful, over-time is regarded with suspicion and hostility, and if there is anything in this world more abominably wicked than another, and more deserving of the most condign punishment, it is what is called "chasing," which is nothing more than a smart workman doing more work than an incompetent or lazy one. When I observe that the whole forces and machinery of the Unions are directed to these objects, I find it difficult to believe that this nine-hours movement is not another device of the same kind. By shortening the hours of labor, the League hopes to compel the employers to engage a larger number of hands in the first instance, and when once the short hours are firmly established, over-time will be forbidden, and the artificial contraction of the supply of labor which will thus be created will lead to a demand for a corresponding increase of wages. The tree is known by its fruit, but the fruit is also known by the tree; and I think there can be little doubt that the nine-hours movement is only another of the Socialist expedients of the Unionists. Insurance Convention—Address of Superintendent Miller—A Permanent Organization to be Formed.

The Insurance Convention, which adjourned last May, met yesterday at the hall of the Board of Fire Underwriters. Superintendent MILLER presided. He delivered an address, in which he alluded to the Chicago disaster and to the failure of insurance companies in England. He wanted such a system of supervision in this country as to render it impossible for a failure to occur. As regards the losses at Chicago, he was glad to say that a large proportion of the companies was able to pay every dollar without impairing their capital. He thought that ninety per cent. of the amounts lost by the New-York companies would ultimately be paid. He wanted companies with large capital and with a large surplus, to meet an emergency. A resolution to appoint a permanent organization was adopted, as was also one to prepare a bill to be submitted to the Legislature, to cover the salient points connected with insurance matters. The meeting then adjourned.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

No. 112.—Booth and Angleroot vs. Clise.—Error to the Circuit Court for the District of Wisconsin.—This was an action against the defendant in error, as Sheriff, for the escape of one Brinckman, who was taken in custody under a writ of ne exeat, in pursuance of the statute of Wisconsin. The defense was that the writ had been issued in a course of action arising out of and founded on contract, and that having been so issued, was void on its face by the terms of the Constitution of the State, and imposed no obligation upon the defendant, and afforded him no protection against false imprisonment in attempting to carry out the mandate of the writ. The writ showed upon its face that it was to imprison the person named for a debt, for if the obligation was not upon contract, but upon a judgment obtained in an action ex delicto, the body could have been taken upon execution. Therefore the Sheriff knew that the writ commanded him to do what the State Constitution forbade, and the writ was void. It was also pleaded that Brinckman was conveyed to an adjoining county by the Sheriff, and was there, in obedience to a writ of habeas corpus, delivered to the Circuit Judge, who afterward released and discharged him from custody under the ne exeat. It appeared, however, that Brinckman escaped while the habeas corpus was under argument, and did not return. The Circuit Judge wrote an opinion in the case for the discharge of the prisoner, but declined to decide the matter until Brinckman's return. Objection was made to the admission of this opinion in the trial of the action, because there was no judgment or final order entered in the proceeding in which it was prepared, and for other reasons. The Court, however, overruled the objection, admitted the evidence, and subsequently sustained both the defences of the Sheriff. The verdict and judgment were for the defendant in error, and the cause comes here where, in support of the writ of error it is maintained as the chief question, that the Sheriff, who is merely a ministerial officer, cannot shield himself from liability for an escape, by treating as a nullity the adjudication of a competent judicial officer, as was done in this case in the disregard shown to the writ of ne exeat. The cause was submitted on the printed point.

Messrs. COTHREN and CARPENTER for defendant in error, G. W. LAKIN for plaintiff.

No. 116.—Samson et al. vs. Smiley.—Error to the Supreme Court of Nebraska.—This is a contest concerning the pre-emption of certain lands near Omaha, involving only an issue of fact, in which the evidence is conflicting and contradictory, charging fraud, perjury, &c., upon various parties to the controversy. The cause was argued at length by Lyman Trumbull for plaintiff in error, and Woolworth and Poppleton for defendants.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

Before Judge Benedict.

The Court opened at 11 o'clock yesterday. The Grand Jury having answered their names, the Judge formally addressed them, observing that the District-Attorney had presented no case before him which called for special attention. The Grand Jury then entered upon their duties. Frank R. Raby, one of the delinquent grand jurors who were ordered to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt in not appearing, was excused, and satisfactory reasons were given for the non-appearance of the others.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—OCT. 18.

Before Judge Barnard.

NOBODY'S CHILD.

In re Mary Sullivan.—This is an application by a father for the possession of his child. It appeared that James Sullivan, the father of the relator, being poor a few years since, placed his child in charge of the Commissioners of Charity, who gave the child out to a Mrs. Smith, living at Rahway, N. J., where, it is said, the child died, and was buried under the name of Mary Smith. Counsel for the father stated that he wanted the child produced in Court in obedience to the writ.

"The child is dead beyond question," responded the opposing counsel. "We are not sure of that." Counsel opposed said:

Judge BARNARD concluded, in consequence of the conflict of evidence as to the child's existence, to send the case to a referee.

ANOTHER LOST CHILD.

In re Thomas Grant Hathaway.—The mother of the relator, a boy of six years, seeks his custody. It appeared that the child was in the custody of its grandmother for some time. In opposition it was claimed that the mother was not a fit person to have charge of the child, while on the part of the mother, affidavits were presented sustaining her character. Decision reserved.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—OCT. 18.

Before Justice Brady.

REINSURANCE AND GENERAL AVERAGE.

The Great Western Insurance Company vs. The Commercial Mutual Insurance Company.—This was a suit by the plaintiffs for $1,200—the plaintiffs' share out of what was saved from the wreck of the bark Aumer Sechs. The defendants did not deny the claim, but set up a counter claim for their share of the proceeds of cotton saved from the Ellen Maria. The Court gave judgment for defendants for the balance claimed, with interest.

Mr. Choate for plaintiffs; Mr. S. P. Nash for defendants.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—OCT. 18.

Before Judge Jones.

MORE CHILDREN AT ISSUE.

Mary Louisa Parsons vs. Henry Francis Parsons.—This is a suit for divorce, the plaintiff seeking the custody of the children. In 1871 they separated voluntarily, the defendant allowing plaintiff $3 a week. Plaintiff now seeks alimony to the amount of $25, while defendant claims he earns only $12 a week. Decision reserved.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.—OCT. 18.

Before Judge Freedman and a Jury.

VERDICT FOR LIFE INSURANCE.

Weed vs. The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, of New-Jersey.—In this case, which was to recover on a policy of life insurance, the defense being suicide, and the facts of which have already appeared in the TIMES, a verdict has been rendered in favor of plaintiff for the full amount claimed, amounting, with interest, to $12,502 53. It was shown on the trial that the insured was insane at the time he committed the act.

A SNOW-PLOW ACCIDENT.

John Gray vs. Second-avenue Railroad Company.—This is an action to recover $500 damages for injuries to plaintiff's carriage and horses, alleged to have been caused by a snow-plow belonging to defendant. The jury found a verdict in favor of plaintiff for six cents, the evidence of the carriage driver's carelessness evidently contributing to this result.

Putney & Adams for plaintiff, J. H. Platt and Waldo Hutchins for defendant.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 18—P. M.

The following Gold Interest on the Public Debt of the United States will be prepaid next week, without rebate, if presented, or on or after Nov. 1, when due in regular course:

On $380,765,750 Coupon 5-20s, 1862	$11,422,972
On $80,566,050 Registered 5-20s, 1862	2,416,981
On $41,995,700 Coupon 5-20s, 1864	1,259,861
On $44,108,100 Registered Coupon 5-20s, 1864	1,323,243
On $120,622,800 Coupon 5-20s, 1865	3,618,684
On $44,839,900 Registered Coupon 5-20s, 1865	1,345,197
On $7,955,000 Coupon new 5s	198,875
On $54,471,150 Registered Coupon new 5s	1,361,779
$775,274,450	$22,947,692

The books of registration for the November Interest are now ready, and receipts by large holders, of the Five-twenty Stocks can be signed at once and checks payable Oct. 25 will follow. For the Registered new Five ₱ cent. Stocks the Checks of the United States Treasurer will be mailed from Washington. Nearly the whole of the first item of Coupon Interest, $11,422,972, on Five-twenties of 1862, will be drawn for European Bondholders, and the Gold turned into Exchange or reinvested in other Bonds. About two-thirds (if not more) of the item of $3,618,684 Coupon Interest on the old Five-twenties of 1865 will also be drawn for foreign Bondholders.

The offers made to the Treasury at 12 o'clock today to sell United States 5-20s to the Sinking Fund, amounted to $8,264,000, of which the Secretary of the Treasury promptly by telegraph accepted $4,000,000, although his Currency balances last night, at all the depositories, exclusive of balances to the credit of Disbursing Officers, amounted to only $6,000,000. At the New-York Office more than two-thirds the Currency balances have passed from the Treasury at Washington to the credit of Disbursing Officers. But there is a commendable inclination on the part of the Treasury to employ the utmost Currency balances of the Treasury to the relief of the Money market, and his current sales of Gold are regulated, as near as may be, to the same object.

This disbursement of $4,500,000 for 5-20s ought to work relief to the pressure for Money, and the announcement was very acceptable to borrowers today, but the continued pressure to sell the Railroad and other Stocks for Cash, and the increasing mercantile demand for Money made the day a blue Wednesday on the Stock Exchange, and prices, as a rule, went below the panic sales of last week. There was some light, after bank hours, however, and the feeling, at the close, seemed to be that if prices are to go much lower it will be from the main force of bearing the market, rather than from the necessities of holders to incur further sacrifices. The telegrams from Bankers at Chicago encouraged the opinion that the drain upon our Banks here for Greenbacks for that quarter is nearly over.

The Public Funds show much steadiness. The offerings to the Treasury show a smaller amount of stock on the market than was expected, and this impression is strengthened by the circumstance that only $650,000 of the $4,000,000 accepted were taken into the Treasury today, although the Office was ready to back the entire transaction.

The sales of Gold this Afternoon fell to 113 ₱ cent. on the close approach of the November Interest, and the low ruling of Exchange, which is about 108@108¼ ₱ cent. for 60 days London. The Produce Exports from New-York this week yield about £1,100,000 Sterling Exchange, the value of the clearances, in Currency, being $5,831,474.

After the Boards, on the decline in Gold, the 5-20s of 1867 and the other Public Funds dealt in abroad, were a fraction lower. In the Railroad Stocks a very large business was done at the Second Board and in the Board Room after the adjournment, also in Western Telegraph, at constantly fluctuating quotations of 1@2 ₱ cent. In Money the rates were not much different from yesterday, 7 ₱ cent. Gold on Stocks to the leading houses, and a commission paid in addition by some of the borrowers. The heavy holders of Lake Shore, Western Telegraph and some other Stocks are still credited with free sales for cash, by way of relieving their Money wants, but it is not questioned, at the same time, that a considerable share of the transactions in the same Stocks are by other parties for short account. There is almost as much, if not more bearish talk on the Street than when the Western Railways were 15@20 ₱ cent. higher, and New-York Central 10@12 ₱ cent. higher. At the very close the following quotations were made as compared with Tuesday night.

—Daily Bulletin.

We concur with our neighbor of the Journal of Commerce in the suggestion that the Fire Insurance Offices that escaped the Chicago fire altogether have no peculiar claims, in the competition for new business, over other Offices that did suffer and are able to meet their losses promptly without impairing their Capital. It was not the result of sagacity, but simply a piece of good fortune—which might not occur again in a sweeping fire, in New-York, for example—that exempted any of the respectable Offices of the country, at Chicago.

The return from the Bank of England for the week ended Oct. 4, gives the following results when compared with the previous week:

The stockholders of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company, before disposing of their proxies, are invited to call at the office of A. & L. NEILSON, No. 54 Wall-street.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND-GRANT BONDS

OF THE

ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY,

IN DENOMINATIONS OF $1,000, $500, AND $100, can now be had from the undersigned or through the principal banks and bankers of the United States. The attention of investors is invited to the merits of these bonds, secured by a first and only mortgage on the road, equipments, franchises, and property of a trunk line of railroad which will shorten the distance between New-York and San Francisco some 230 miles, and in addition the mortgage to secure the bonds covers a land-grant of 1,500,000 acres of the most fertile land in the West, which is prohibited from being sold at less than four ($4) dollars per acre by the terms of the mortgage deed, and according to the present market price of the Illinois Central Company's lands is worth $18,750,000. This loan was originally for $5,500,000, but has been largely reduced by subscriptions of actual investors. The remaining balance of the loan is offered at 97½ and accrued interest, but the right is reserved to advance the price at any time, without notice.

The bonds have thirty years to run; bear 8 per cent. interest, payable in New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the-Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, free of taxes. BOTH PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE PAYABLE IN GOLD. They are Coupon Bonds, but can be registered with the coupons ON, or can be registered with the coupons OFF, and interest paid to registered owner. Interest payable Aug. 15 and Feb. 15. A liberal sinking fund, formed from the entire land sales, in payment for which the bonds will be received at par and accrued interest, provides for the early extinguishment of this loan.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

These bonds offer favorable inducements to parties desiring to fund their Five-Twenties or other high-priced securities.

In converting Five-Twenties the investors realize 17 per cent. profit on the principal; 2 per cent. per annum excess of interest; and at the same time get a perfect security.

Maps, circulars, documents, and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of this loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division being now quoted at 102 and accrued interest. These were originally placed by us at 97½.

TANNER & CO.,
Bankers, No. 11 Wall-st.

☞THE WEST WISCONSIN RAILWAY is now very nearly finished, and trains will be running through from Tomah to St. Paul by Nov. 1. The earnings of the Road from local traffic on the completed portion constitute already a profitable business; and arrangements and connections are about perfected which will make it the Great Air-Line Route from Chicago to the North-west, effecting a saving of more than 100 miles over the present route. The Bonds are a First Mortgage on the road itself and on a valuable Land Grant of 1,000,000 acres. They bear interest in gold at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and are sold now at 90 and accrued interest in currency by WHITE, MORRIS & CO., No. 18 Wall-st., and GWYNNE, JOHNSON & DAY, No. 18 Wall-st., where pamphlets and further information may be obtained.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Vessels Detained at Quarantine—Weekly Statistics—Number of Deaths.

The Board of Health met yesterday.

In reference to the dumping of manure at the foot of Forty-second to Forty-fifth, and Forty-seventh streets, the Sanitary Committee recommended that the accumulations be removed before Dec. 1, which recommendation was adopted by the Board.

A communication was received from FUNCH, EDYE & Co., owners of the bark Washington, now detained at Quarantine, together with the ship Grahams Polley, from Cronstadt, loaded with rags. They asked that the vessels be allowed up to the City to discharge their cargoes. The Health Officer opposed the application, and finally the matter was referred to the Sanitary Committee. The reports of contagious diseases show a decrease during the past week. Last week, fevers, including typhoid and scarlet, numbered 60, small-pox 16, measles 3, and diphtheria 2. Dr. CHARLES P. RUSSELL, Register of Records, reports as follows: During the past week there were registered 486 deaths, being an excess of 20 over the previous week, and of 59 over the corresponding period of 1870. Zymotic diseases caused 113 deaths, constitutional 127, local 194, developmental 26, and violent causes 26.

During the past week there were 556 births registered.

Capt. YULE, of the Sanitary Company of Police, seized and confiscated, as unfit for human food, for the week ending Oct. 14, as follows: Cattle, 98 carcasses; sheep, 15; hogs, 1, and veal, 7 carcasses; poultry, 773 pounds; beef, 675 pounds, and fish, 4,000 pounds.

The Railroad Lease Case—An Injunction Denied—Decision of Chancellor Zabriskie.

Chancellor ZABRISKIE, at Trenton, N. J., yesterday delivered a very lengthy opinion in the railroad lease case. The conclusions to which he arrived were, first, that the act of 1870 gave authority to the directors of the united companies to connect with other roads; second, that their lines formed both connected and continuous lines with railroads in other States; third, all the property of the road and their appendages may be leased and operated without the consent of all the stockholders; fourth, the directors have such power by the consent of the State; fifth, such lease is within the power delegated by the Legislature to the directors; sixth, that the purpose of the lease is a public use; seventh, even if the directors have not the power to make the lease, the making of it is but a taking of property without compensation; eighth, that the Pennsylvania Railroad has power to consummate this lease. The injunction must be denied, and the order restraining the defendants vacated.

Mr. BROWNING presented a petition for appeal, and asking that an order be made staying all proceedings until the meeting of the Court of Errors. The Chancellor refused to continue the injunction until that time.

The Halsted Murder Case.

In BOTTS' trial yesterday at Newark, the prosecution rested at noon. The defense opened their case, stating the grounds to be that the prisoner's state of mind was such as made him irresponsible, and that the pistol was discharged accidentally. Several witnesses from Morris County and Newark, who knew BOTTS from boyhood, testified to his previous reputation for peace and quietness. The Court adjourned till this morning.

The undersigned offers the unsold balance of the First and only Mortgage Bonds of the Vineland Railway Company, the entire Loan being $750,000.

The line begins at the terminus of the New-Jersey Southern Railroad, and extends to the Delaware River, is 47¾ miles, and traverses the garden of New-Jersey—almost the entire length passing through a rich and cultivated country,—the products of which will be brought to Philadelphia and New-York by this line.

The flourishing towns of Vineland and Bridgeton are on the route.

On the opposite shore of the Delaware River the Smyrna Road is constructing, and will form a part of a through line to Baltimore.

Thirty-seven miles are now operated, and the remaining ten miles will be laid by Sept. 20.

FINANCIAL.

Holders of Five-Twenties

WHO WISH TO INCREASE THEIR INCOME

WITHOUT RISK,

Can obtain from us any of the best descriptions of Railroad Bonds for cash, or in exchange for Government Securities. We have the Bonds of the

Rondout and Oswego Railroad

FOR SALE.

These bonds are in good demand, and we recommend them as safe and most remunerative. The popularity of these Bonds is partly due to the fact that the interest is not paid out of capital, as has to be done by some other incipient enterprises. The Rondout and Oswego Railroad Company are doing a prosperous business. The net earnings of the road already amount to 10 per cent. on all the Bonds to be issued. Fifty miles are now in operation, and the remaining fifty miles will be opened next Summer, fifteen miles being almost finished. The road passes through a rich agricultural district heretofore shut out from railroad facilities; its local traffic is, and will be, good; while its connections will give it a large through traffic between the great lakes and deep-water navigation on the Hudson. The nearness of the road to this City allows its true condition to be examined and thoroughly known by the bondholder. By procuring these Bonds in exchange for Five-twenties, the investor gets a Bond equally sound and safe; he also adds to his capital more than 25 per cent., while to his income he adds more than 47½ per cent.

The Young Men's Movement.

The Young Men's Municipal Reform Association is already organized in nine Wards, and over six hundred members have resolved to give up all their time to the election. To these Ward organizations the Executive Committee has issued the following pointed and seasonable recommendations: Increase your numbers. Register every member. See that every voter in your Ward is registered. There is, it will be observed, no disposition to waste time in talking about the work to be done. There is developed at the very outset a quiet determination to set about doing it. The present crisis of our affairs demands celerity of movement, and these young men have wheeled into line with a rapidity which augurs well for their future efficiency. The ranks of the reformers wanted just this element of dash and youthful energy to fit them in all respects for victory. The Young Reformers are doing as much for the next generation as they are for this, for they are training the men of character and intelligence who will step into the places now occupied by their elders, to discharge the duties which no citizen can neglect without helping to bring loss and dishonor on the community to which he belongs. There is much to be done during the next three weeks, in order to effect the overthrow of the corrupt despotism which misgoverns us. Let every citizen emulate the promptitude and self-devotion of these young men, in whatever department of the work of reform is most congenial to him, and our City Government will be purged after a fashion which will make the uprising of New-York as memorable as her long period of subjection and disgrace.

It should hardly be necessary for us to enter into a controversy with a journal which repeats with idiotic malice the accusation that we "slandered" the Young Reformers. Since we take some pride in counting the Association among the fruits of our own efforts, and as a direct response to our own appeals, we may refer to some of the more recent of these. On Oct. 7 we said:

> "There ought to be an Anti-Tammany Club in every Assembly district of the State. Let the young men who feel the urgency of the present occasion form these clubs. Let some man of recognized character and energy be chosen as the President of each. Let the originators of the club then use every effort to enroll as members every voter who is willing to vote and work against the Tammany Democratic ticket."

This was followed on Oct. 8 by the following:

> "In the present fight against local corruption we do not hear enough of the young men who are to be the leading citizens of the coming generation. * * * * * * *
>
> The future is with us in the character of our young men, but we fail to see much hope for the future while they persist in a blunder from which their elders have been rudely awakened. If there be anything in the force of example, or in the association of good names, young men have encouragement enough to lend their aid in purifying local politics when men like Henry Clews, James M. Brown, Henry G. Stebbins, Wm. F. Havemeyer, Isaac H. Bailey, Jackson S. Schultz, Henry F. Spaulding and Andrew H. Green are already engaged in the work."

And on Oct. 13, the following concluded what the Tribune calls "abuse and ridicule" of the Young Reformers:

> "There is every hope for the greater, richer, and more influential New-York, which these young men will live to see, when the duties of wealth and position are, thus early, recognized. Active politics ought to be an ennobling as well as an essentially noble sphere for exertion. That it has been basely degraded is universally admitted, but it can only be redeemed by the best men coming to the front. To-night's meeting will mark another decided step in this direction, and will, we trust, be the means of organizing such a movement among the intelligent and cultivated young men in this City, as shall not only be productive of the most beneficial results in the present, but shall also give brilliant promise for the future."

It is a tolerably well known fact that there is no surer indication of want of will in any work than a disposition to be exceedingly captious regarding other people's "way" of doing it. A curish instinct to snap and growl at those engaged in the battle, instead of taking a place in the ranks, may entitle a paper to the gratitude of the enemy, but is likely to be rated at its proper worth by all honest men.

Exeunt the Fenians.

If Fenianism could possibly be made more ridiculous than it now is, that desirable end would have been fully attained by the late abortive splutter at Fort Garry. Of all the attempted conquests of the New Dominion this is surely the most absurd. In previous invasions there has been at least some show of fighting, and so far as numbers were concerned a formidable array of invaders. Even at St. Albans, shots were exchanged and blood was shed before the valiant Fenian generalissimo concluded that the familiar precincts of the jail would be more agreeable than the novel uncertainties of the battle-field. But the raid on Manitoba had not even so much appearance of earnestness to redeem its ignominious failure. A parcel of boys making an incursion into an orchard would have made a better show than Gens. O'Donohue and O'Neil and their forty misguided ragamuffins. Apparently, they ventured across the border only to enjoy the delightful sensation of scampering safely back. But in spite of all their practice, these heroes have not yet learned even to run away any better than they fight, and all their leaders and nearly half their army were captured by a single United States officer.

Too much praise cannot be given to the commandant of Fort Pembina for the promptness and vigor with which he put down this attempted violation of neutrality. We may hope, for the sake of the servant girls, whose hard earnings have been taxed long enough for a crazy scheme, that this ignominious fiasco will put an end to the nonsense of Fenianism. We look to see the leader of this expedition so severely punished that imitation of his exploits will be, ever after, effectually discouraged. Especially O'Neil, if, as we suppose, he is the fellow who figured in the St. Albans raids, should be taught at once the lesson he has so long needed. The utter imbecility of these repeated invasions must destroy the last vestige of faith in the most stolid and ignorant of the dupes who give their money and their lives to this silly farce, and it only needs one or two memorable and unmistakable examples to put an end to a harlequinade as annoying to our neighbors as it is discreditable to decent Irishmen.

The "Friends" of the Poor Laborers.

Our "governing families" have lately assumed the philanthropic rôle. We do not mean in sending help to Chicago, for, so far as we have observed, their names have been conspicuous by their absence from all the subscription lists. They have taken the cheaper road to benevolence of having it noisily proclaimed that they and they alone were the friends of the City laborers. Unfortunately, they have given no indication of "how much" they sympathize with their humble subordinates. The distinguished pluralists of the Sweeny and Tweed families have not released their hold on one of their many fat offices, because the pay of the laboring men is in arrears, and the Treasury has, thanks to their industry and enterprise, been thoroughly emptied. The Park laborer finds himself addressed by the urbane Hilton and the philanthropic Sweeny in a strain similar to that adopted by Canning's "Friend of Humanity" to the "Needy Knife-grinder:" "Go and bully the Deputy Controller; if he has not the money, so much the better, it will give us an excuse for taking our revenge out of his honesty by worrying and perhaps frightening him."

Suppose the laborers were to suggest that P. B. Sweeny should relieve the overtaxed resources of the City by sacrificing some of the sinecures held by his numerous relatives. Brother-in-law Bradley, for example, might contrive to provide himself with the bare necessities of existence out of his earnings of $150,000 a year as City Chamberlain, supplemented by the profits of his livery-stable and the trifle he makes out of the upper story of one of the City Courts. By strict economy and attention to business, he might thus be able to tide over these hard times without the fee of $40,000 which he receives yearly for sending a check to Albany, and without the paltry $1,000 he receives as Commissioner of the Sinking Fund. In fact a generous consideration for the poor people who don't get a full day's pay for every hour they work, might tempt him to refund the $16,583 33 received as President of the Croton Board—an office which cost him no trouble, because he never held it. Brother James M. Sweeny might also be prevailed upon to make his choice between being Deputy Chamberlain, Clerk of the Supreme Court, and Commissioner of the Riverside Park opening. Should his energies be perfectly equal to the discharge of the duties attached to all three positions, he might at least content himself with the emoluments of one of them, and throw himself upon the chances of the numerous appointments as referee, &c., which fall in his way. Not to mention the Commissionerships and Receiverships of Uncle Barr, and the numerous smaller plums shared by other relatives, it is obvious enough that Mr. P. B. Sweeny might lend some of the family "placers" for the benefit of the poor laborers. Hilton probably differs with the bulk of the public in supposing that he earns his salary of $10,000 a year; but when poor men are wanting bread, he cannot surely refuse to abolish his brother's ornamental appointment as "Park Police Doctor," and place its fees or salary into the empty wages-box. Tweed thought that if the laborers were to threaten the people who had discovered the men who were robbing them, no harm would be done. As this specific has failed, suppose he should take into consideration whether the District-Attorney's office could not dispense with the brilliant and versatile Tweed, Jr., and so save the City $5,000 a year, and whether brother Richard and his fees could not be eliminated from the Assessor's Department. Brother-in-law King and nephew King are humble, but doubtless deserving dependents. They are only paid about ten times their value, and so may be tolerated till the bigger barnacles have been disposed of.

These suggestions will probably be received with the rejoinder of the "Friend of Humanity" to the Knife-grinder's modest request for six-pence. In that case, we can't see that there is a very bright prospect for the laborers. The drones must be killed off if there is to be any honey for the working-bees. One honest man cannot do very much against a compact body of rascals. Mr. Green has done, and is doing his best to wipe out sinecure berths from his own Department. He is likewise reducing, as rapidly as he can, the bloated pay-rolls of Court attendants. Beyond this, he can, in this particular direction, do nothing. Does anybody expect Tweed and Sweeny to endanger the family emoluments by seeing that nobody is paid for doing nothing? If the laborers have faith enough in their "friends" to think so, let them bring the matter under their notice, and wait for a reply.

What Rural Democrats Think of the Rochester Convention.

Our readers will find in another column the address, previously alluded to as having been adopted at a meeting of Democrats, held at Saratoga Springs, on the 13th inst. The signers of the address comprise, according to the Saratogian, the leading Democrats and men of high standing and worth in that section of the State. They tell their fellow Democrats distinctly, what the Times has all along asserted, and what every man who has any knowledge at all on the subject knows to be true, that the Democratic Convention at Rochester was controlled from beginning to end by the Tammany Ring, and that all honest Democrats in the State are disappointed at the result of its proceedings. "The Democracy expected," they say, "and had a right to expect, from this Convention better things, both in respect of its disposition of Tammany and its nominations. With the exception of Secretary of State, every man upon the ticket was born politically of 'Ring' influence, and some of them, we fear, are participators in Ring profits." Alluding to the defeat of Chas. O'Conor as a candidate for Attorney-General through the influence of Tammany, they do not hesitate to say that, in their opinion, "if the Angel Gabriel had been proposed as a candidate in the Rochester Convention he would have been awarded precisely the number of votes cast for Mr. O'Conor, (42.)" This is pretty strong language, but not a whit stronger than the facts warrant. Neither the Angel Gabriel nor any other angel, unless he bore the sign-manual of Tammany, would have had any chance in the Rochester Convention. It is very evident that the World's "country policy" is not equal to the task of hoodwinking the Democracy of Saratoga County.

The French Finances.

Money continues to flow in a great stream from London to the Continent, and there has been a ceaseless drain on the gold held by the Bank of England. This was to have been expected, and may be expected for a long time to come. The great war has precisely the same effect, on a larger scale, as the Chicago fire. An immense amount of property has been destroyed, and there is nothing to show for it. This property must be paid for, and the cash must come from without. One immediate effect of this consists in a general shrinkage of values. The English railway shares have already suffered, and the comparative dearness of money brings its legitimate consequence in cheapening most other classes of securities.

M. Michel Chevalier, whose competency is undoubted, has published an exhibit of the existing and prospective state of the French finances. The statement is a gloomy one. Before the war, the yearly expenses were some $450,000,000; they must henceforth exceed six hundred million dollars. The annual charge, before the war, for the funded debt was about seventy-five million dollars, gold, and it must now be set down at two hundred million dollars. In other words, the tax under this head is more than doubled, and must be paid by a people fewer, poorer, and with less land than the people who paid the smaller sum. Nor is this the full extent of the burden. M. Chevalier reckons that the State must at once pay out one hundred million dollars at least to renew war material, restore destroyed public buildings, and erect needful fortifications. This sum must be borrowed, and as the present taxes fail to cover the present expenses, must be well paid for. Besides this, the Government owes to the Bank of France three hundred million dollars, a debt to put off the payment of which will cost the nation more than it will bring in. Still further in addition, there are numbers of minor charges, the neglect of which is becoming very embarrassing. It is true, on the other hand, that on the 1st of October a part of the new taxes came into effect, and that a fresh set of fiscal enactments became operative on the 15th. But the ominous growls with which the new impositions are received in Paris are anything but reassuring to the Treasury, and the obvious impolicy of irritating the people, and so of creating disaffection, may prevent the taxes from being gathered with a rigorous enough hand. Paris is all unused to heavy imposts on her pleasures, and the stringent pressure to be applied to restaurants and billiard-tables, to all rents above three hundred dollars per annum, to all cabs and omnibusses, railways and steamers, is not calculated to enhance the popularity of the Republic.

It is pointed out that Great Britain in 1817 paid three-fourths the annual charge now devolved on France as interest on funded debt. But the vast difference between shouldering such a load when buoyed up by the wings of victory and when exhausted and depressed by defeat is but one of the things that weaken the force of the comparison. England had at the time named, immensely profitable outlying possessions. If her outgo was great her income was great also. The splendid future opened by Waterloo was guaranteed by material sinews of success. The prospect after Sedan is sadly different, and political instability lends additional gravity to the situation. In our own case again, the elements of swift recuperation abounded after the war in a measure simply without precedent. There were many, even then, to say we could not carry the load; and if they proved to be in error, their mistake was not unfortified by reason and experience. France is in a far different position, and it is no wonder that her monetary future perplexes and alarms the ablest calculators. With a government having any credible promise of solidity, with any signs from the people that they mean to accept the situation in a cheerful, energetic spirit, the outlook would be less grave. But no law is more inflexible in its working than that which obliges a borrower to pay dearly for his loan in proportion to the insecurity of his means to return it; and, put it in what shape we will, capital must be heavily bribed to venture where the Commune may repudiate in a day the obligations of the Republic, or some fresh authority may as quickly upset the arrangements of both.

"Comanche Bill."

Just before the fire a very notable character paid a visit to Chicago. Our readers hardly need to be told that there are figures on the prairies as picturesque as any ever drawn by Cooper, or by the later school of genre artists who have succeeded him. These eccentric persons occasionally appear on the fringe of society, peep in, as it were, at the windows of civilization, and then, nowise fascinated by what they see there, betake themselves again to the wilderness. So has done "Comanche Bill." But before his flight he submitted to one of the last and most delicate processes of modern art—he allowed himself to be "interviewed" by a Chicago reporter. To that fact is chiefly due what we now know of "Comanche Bill;" and it is quaint and interesting enough to be worth telling.

"Comanche Bill" devotes his entire energies, it seems, to the exciting if hazardous pursuit of killing Indians. This occupation he has adopted not out of mere caprice, but on a settled principle, which is certainly not without justification. Many years ago, when Bill was in his teens and away from his frontier home in Minnesota, a dreadful massacre occurred. A party of Sioux, headed by the blood-thirsty Black Wolf, attacked the little settlement by night and killed every soul in it. Among the slain were the parents of Bill, and his mother, whom he tenderly loved, was killed and scalped by Black Wolf himself. Bill got a lock of his mother's hair somehow, and swore he would have an Indian scalp for every hair in it. He thereupon set himself deliberately to carry out this resolution. Passing through many critical adventures and coming out safely, he encountered his arch enemy, Black Wolf, five years after the murder of his mother. The meeting was on Silver Lake, near the Yellowstone River. Black Wolf had many braves with him, and Bill was accompanied by sixty frontiersmen. The Indian Chief wore the scalp of Bill's mother on his shield, and it is easy to understand how bitter and desperate was the battle that followed. In Bill's own graphic language, "We went into them, and I got shot in the jaw. I had a chaw of tobacco in my mouth, and it went out suddent, I tell you. It played —— with that tobacco. Then I had my jaw bound up. His band was almost all killed when I met him. He had my mother's scalp on his shield." An awful fight ensued, in which Bill received seventeen shots and cuts. But he killed Black Wolf and had the exquisite and poetic satisfaction to "lift his ha'r."

After this, Bill's only sister, who had been carried off alive by the Indians, was heard of among the Cheyennes, and her brother determined to rescue her. While making the attempt he was himself captured, and the redskins, who now began to know something about their formidable prisoner, subjected him to frightful tortures. Among other things, they tied him down and "pounded" his finger-nails off. Then they turned him over to an old squaw, who, being childless, had an unindulged genius for flagellation, and who beat him daily in the most fiendish manner. One day he made his escape, and, bleeding from many wounds and nearly dead, got into the trackless forest. Here he nearly starved. In his own words: "All I ate for six days was one roasted rattlesnake. You may think I am blowing, but I will swear to it. I got to the post and had my hands fixed up, and it was two months before I could lift a bridle. When I could, I lifted ten scalps for the ten finger-nails. It was no more than fair, was it?" "Comanche Bill" claims to have now killed the entire band that murdered his family. They were ninety-six in number and he not only "lifted" all their "ha'r," but possesses all their scalps. His whole pleasure in life consists of these sanguinary exploits and accumulating these ghastly trophies. The tame joys of chasing the buffalo and braving the hug of the grizzly have for him no charm. Redskins are the sole game he cares for, and them he follows up with implacable and persistent resolution. Sympathy is often invoked for the unhappy Indians, and, indeed, to see them gradually melting from the continent that once was theirs, is a mournful and touching spectacle. Yet, if anything could justify an undying vendetta, or even the devotion of posterity, to perpetual enmity against them, it is such a provocation as "Comanche Bill's." He will fall at last, no doubt, in some desperate fight, and his bones will whiten the desolate prairie or molder in some obscure cañon; but his oath of retribution will have been terribly fulfilled, and his slaughtered parents will be amply avenged, according to his own savage code.

A Bath of Beauty.

The fountain of perpetual youth is discovered at last. It is the baths of Schlangen Bad, near Schwalbach. A correspondent, who well knows whereof he writes, asserts most positively that these waters do have an active and speedy effect on the skin. That effect may be temporary, he admits, but then the application can be continually renewed, and the bath of beauty taken as regularly as breakfast. This is the veritable achievement that Mme. Rachel promised, but failed to perform. She pledged herself to make people "beautiful forever," a power belonging, it appears, only to Nature and the baths of Schlangen Bad. These "render the soft skin of youth still more soft and lovely; they restore some of the beauty of youth to the skin of the matron." The respectable authority we cite declares that there is no doubt whatever that even a single bath does really produce a certain, "though temporary," alteration in the skin. One's body appears, he tells us, to be converted into alabaster. "The effect is strange, and to some persons may be pleasing." We certainly know of a good many persons on whom the effect would be pleasing on another score than that of mere good looks; yet undoubtedly to alternate from a condition of alabaster to one of Scotch granite might be attended with inconveniences.

It is said that to add to the delights of the baths of Schlangen Bad they not only make people lovely but supple. Old folks after ablution in them become as lithe and active as children. Our correspondent vouches for this as well; and altogether the fascinations of the new Spa, but for such strong indorsement, would seem rather apocryphal. It is admitted, however—and this is an unhappy drawback—that the waters make the bathers vain. They often go through the experience of Narcissus—or, at all events, the first part of it. A story in point is told of an elderly Frenchman, who, when taking a bath, was overheard saying to himself, "Dans ces bains on devient absolument amoreux de soi-même." Our informant sagely points out that people have been known to fall in love with themselves without going to the baths of Schlangen Bad; but this is mere sophistication, since the greater the number of people who are made "beautiful forever," the greater must needs be the risk of the augmentation of self-worship. It is to be feared, however, that no prudential consideration will prevent the spread of the fame of these baths, and we shall, without question, soon hear of the Schlangen Bad waters at our fashionable chemists' and perfumers'. They will be brought over and purveyed by the bottle, no doubt, and many a ci-devant belle will blossom forth afresh in all the diabolical beauty of youth.

It is startling to reflect how many modern discoveries make realities of the myths and legends of antiquity. Apparently there is hardly a wonder of the Arabian Nights or the Fairy Tales, but in some way or another we may expect in the fullness of time to see become a practical fact, and now that the fountain of perpetual youth is discovered, the philosopher's stone will very likely be next in order. If we can add to the faculty of perennial rejuvenation that of constantly replenishing our purses—so that unchanging lightness of heart and comeliness of person shall be combined with exhaustless gold—we ought apparently to be blest indeed; that is, if we could only forget the experience of Faust and what the career of that aspiring gentleman ended in.

MINOR TOPICS.

There can be no doubt that Gov. Hoffman's action, in reply to the requests of the Committee of Seventy, is encouraging to all true reformers. Gov. Hoffman has acted fairly, and deserves credit for it. The appointment of Mr. O'Conor is about as great a step gained as the appointment of Mr. Andrew H. Green. Yet the Tribune, as a part of its insidious attempts to discourage all attacks on its Hank Smith alliances, sneers at Gov. Hoffman, and does its best to run him down. A day or two ago it sneered at Mr. Tilden because he had not abused the Republican Party in a recent speech. In fact, the Tribune is never right on City affairs, except when it copies its news and opinions from the Times, which it sometimes has the sense to do. When it "goes it alone," it blunders into all sorts of libels, and makes itself the laughing-stock of the community.

Mr. Green's letter to the Department of Parks deserves attentive perusal. It disposes very conclusively of Hilton's impertinent statement that his Department was entirely beyond the power of the Controller, and that he would give just as much information as he pleased about the state of its finances. Hilton's objection to a rigid scrutiny of his accounts is quite intelligible, when we find from Mr. Green's letter that while the Board of Apportionment set aside $186,000 as the legal appropriation for the year's "care and government" of Central Park, the present Commissioners have, in nine months, contrived to spend for these purposes $365,068 14, or at the rate of $486,757 a year. Mr. Green asks for the pay-rolls of each class paid by the Department of Parks, and the public may possibly have the means of knowing how much of this extravagant expenditure went into the pockets of men who are the reverse of "poor laborers."

The numerous friends of Mr. George W. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger, will be glad to learn that he returned safely by the Scotia yesterday, and that the health of his wife is much improved by the journey they have made. Mr. Childs has been absent long enough to acquire a fresh appetite for that work to which he has devoted himself so many years, and with such remarkable and well-deserved success. In England he has met with a very warm reception, and found a hearty return of those hospitalities which he so generously extends to all foreigners traveling in this country. Mr. Childs was the guest of Mr. John Walter, proprietor of the London Times—two men who resemble each other in industry, enterprise, and a conscientious performance of every duty of life. Mr. Childs also spent a week at Stowe, with the Duke and Duchess of Buckingham. We sincerely hope that, however pleasant his foreign visits may be, it will be long before Mr. Childs is obliged to make another trip through the ill health of any member of his family.

We have received the following letter, and $130 inclosed:

> "The accompanying sum ($130) is the contribution of a few women, tax-payers and non-voters, who, believing that the success of the effort to establish an honest and efficient Government in the largest city of the Union is a matter of vital importance to every man and woman in the United States, desire to add their mite, through the New-York Times, to the subscription in aid of 'the Committee of Seventy.'"
>
> Lenox, Mass, Monday, Oct. 16, 1871.

We hope this example will be generally followed. Now that the Committee of Seventy are doing so much good, practical work, surely the public will not hesitate to give them help. It is said that the Committee are all "millionaires." The probability is that they do not own a million among them, and if they did, do the public expect them to give all their private money to this great work, as well as all their time? The suggestion is too ridiculous to need serious notice. Send us contributions for the Committee.

The Tribune, yesterday, continued to "mash" the Times. In the first place, it says that it can find no authority for our statement that the laborers in one of the public Departments are being drilled. That only proves that the Tribune sends very stupid people to get information about City affairs. For more than a year, it has been indebted for all that was really useful on Municipal questions to our columns, and then it turns round, like an ill-conditioned cur, and snaps at the hand which feeds it. That rascal, Henry S. Olcott, could not behave more shabbily. Again, the Tribune says that we attacked the "Young Reformers." That is, in Mr. Greeley's elegant language, (which we borrow with regret,) a "lie." The Tribune knows that its statement is false—knows further that it wishes to deceive its readers in making it. Suppose it were to do something toward securing a victory at the next election, instead of yelping at the heels of the Times? Would not that be a course more worthy of a public journal at such a time as this?

Among the many improvements in cities which the enforced re-building of Chicago has suggested, is that of heating the entire town with steam in a manner very similar to that by which it was formerly lighted—by means of pipes running under ground from some central reservoir to each house, thus doing away forever with the annoyance caused by bad coal, damp wood, kindlings, &c. It may be doubted whether the time is ripe for so extensive an improvement; but when we remember that steam may be forced through these pipes to an immense distance, with a very slight diminution of heat, and at the rate of seven miles per minute, it does indeed seem as if the day could not be far distant when a practical application shall be made of what has long been theoretically admitted.

Mr. Blondin seems determined to invent a feat in his rope-walking which shall finish him at last. At a late performance to be given at the Crystal Palace at Sydenham—it had not come off by last accounts—the tall masts that support the rope were to be covered with fireworks from the ground to the top. When all these were well going, Blondin was to walk forth on the rope bearing a great piece of pyrotechny "weighing about three hundred pounds," which he would forthwith proceed to discharge from "the altitude in the centre of the rope." At the same time shells and mines were to be exploded in every direction, and the advertisement announces with much gusto that Blondin "will thus be encircled with fire for nearly ten minutes." This will doubtless prove a charming spectacle to all who like to see a man killed.

For reasons which will be apparent in a day or two, we defer the publication of our promised analysis of the list of Mayor Hall's inspectors of election.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

ENGLISH OPERA.

"Lucrezia Borgia" was sung at the Academy of Music, last evening, with a great deal of animation on the part of all the artists concerned, and with decided effect. To-night Mme. Parepa-Rosa and her company will be heard in Brooklyn, and to-morrow they appear in "Don Giovanni."

HERR WACHTEL AT THE ACADEMY.

The sale of seats for the special performance of "Il Trovatore," with Mme. Parepa-Rosa, Herr Wachtel, Mme. Gazzaniga and Mr. Lawrence, will be commenced at 9 o'clock this morning.

ITALIAN OPERA.

The Italian opera representations at the Academy of Music, will include, next week, performances of "Lucia," "Faust" and "Martha." The sale of seats for single nights will be commenced today.

MR. DOLBY'S CONCERTS.

A special entertainment, intended to aid the people of Chicago, brought back to Steinway Hall Mr. Dolby's artists. A hearty welcome awaited them, and their conscientious and finished interpretation of a programme full of interest, but of less variety than might be asked, had cordial recognition. Mr. Santley sang "O, Ruddier than the Cherry," "The Valley," by Gounod, and Molloy's "Vagabond," with his wonted earnestness and success. The last concert of the series takes place to-night.

MR. WEHLI'S REAPPEARANCE.

Mr. James M. Wehli reappeared at Niblo's Theatre, yesterday afternoon, when an entertainment was given in aid of Chicago. Mr. Wehli recited his new fantasia on motives from "Maritana," and awakened the delighted applause to which his last season's triumphs accustomed him. Like all Mr. Wehli's compositions, his arrangement of "Maritana" is extremely effective, but the work of adorning Wallace's tunes has been done with unusual sobriety, the infinite variety of the pianist's execution quite compensating for the lack of fireworks. Mr. Wehli goes to Boston with Mrs. Moulton.

MUSIC FOR THE GRAND DUKE.

M. Louis George Julien will supply and conduct the orchestra which will be heard in the entertainments—the operatic one excepted—in honor of the Grand Duke.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CELEBRATION IN BROOKLYN.

The forty-first annual meeting of the Sunday-school Union will be held at the Brooklyn Rink, this afternoon. Singing by one thousand children will be enjoyed, and brief addresses will be delivered by Rev. Dr. John Hall, Rev. H. M. Gallaher, Rev. H. M. Scudder, Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, and Rev. Dr. Studley.

Miscellaneous.

BENEFIT FESTIVAL.

The annual festival for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum takes place at the Academy this afternoon and evening. A most attractive bill has been prepared, and many leading artists, musical and dramatic, are concerned in its interpretation.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Sothern and his family arrived late on Tuesday night by the Scotia. His return to the American stage, and his re-appearance after an absence which has extended over ten years, will be made at Niblo's on Monday evening next.

INDIA.

An Expedition Against the Looshais—Murderous Assaults.

From the Times of India.

An expedition against the Looshais—which may develop into one against their kindred tribes throughout the Eastern Bengal frontier—is at last finally arranged to start on the 1st of December. It is to proceed in two columns—one from Cachar approaching the hill-men from the north-west, and the other from Chittagong, so as to approach from the south-east. The several corps that are to take part in this counter raid are thus specified by one authority: Hazara Mountain Battery, Sappers and Miners, Second Goorkha Regiment, Fourth Goorkha Regiment, Twenty-second Punjaub Native Infantry, Twenty-seventh Punjaub Native Infantry, Forty-second Assam Regiment, Forty-fourth Assam Regiment. Half a Punjaub Mountain Battery, with two mortars and a company of Sappers and Miners, will be attached to each column. This armament is ample for all combative purposes; but the troops will be severely tested by marching and exposure, and the soldierly qualities of endurance, mutual support, firmness, and discretion will be largely called into play. The plan of operations, which aims to close in the whole of the supposed inimical hill tribes, should be effectual, and it must spread the terror of the British name. Whether this policy will produce any more permanent success in Eastern Bengal than a similar course has done on the north-west frontier remains to be seen. No mention is yet made of any political or civil officer to accompany the expedition; but this will have to be arranged, unless the march up the hills and back again is to be purely one of retaliation. Lord Napier of Magdala, to say nothing of the Viceroy, may be trusted to turn the campaign to reproductive account.

MURDEROUS OUTRAGES.

From the Indian Public Opinion, Sept. 1.

Two extraordinary outrages in Lahore this week have really startled the public into very unusual excitement. The judge of the Small Cause Court murderously attacked for the execution of his duty, and the assistant secretary to the municipality similarly assaulted without any cause whatever. The Judge Moonshee Jaishee Ram, only lived about thirty hours after, during which time he was wholly insensible. Mr. Bull was partly protected from the blows of his assailant by his solah topee, and is in a fair way to recover. Yesterday the preliminary inquiries took place in the courts of the Deputy and Assistant Commissioners. There were features in both cases that were calculated to attract serious attention. The assailant of the Judge was a Sikh, of the new Kooka sect, the name of which is now connected with the recent murders at Umritsur and Raikote. The assailant in the other case was a fakir, who, while he struck, cried out, "Pera badal gya, pera badal gya," which is said to signify, "Your watch is over, your raj is gone." These facts could not fail to connect themselves in men's minds with the rumors of a secret Sikh and Mussulman combination, of intended bread-poisoning and plunder and burning, of plotting in Lahore and Umritsur, and Jullunder and Peshawur, of secret meetings in small villages, of Kooka schemes, and the thousand-and-one stories that have been floating about of late. Over and above this, people had a sense of being deserted. The Government and all heads of Departments were at the hills, the railway had broken down, the regiments at Meean Meer were under-officered, the very volunteers had sent their arms to the store. The effect, then, of two murderous outrages of such a marked character, within twelve hours of each other, was not calculated to soothe anxiety. Fortunately it turns out that there was no connection between the crimes, and that they were the mere impulse of the criminals alone. Bishen Singh, the assassin of the judge, has been condemned to be hanged.

Arrival of the Cunard Steam-Ship Scotia.

The Cunard steam-ship Scotia, which left Liverpool on Oct. 7 and Queenstown on Oct. 8, reached this port late Tuesday night. Her dates are fresher by two days than those by the City of Brussels, at this port on Monday.

THE REGISTRY.

Only Slight Additions to the Lists Made Yesterday.

Voters Registered in Districts Entitled to Over 400 Ballots — The Inspectors Appointed by Mayor Hall—The Present Election Law.

The duty of inspectors, as defined in their instructions under the law of 1870, which is still in force, requires them to sit for two days in every district where the number of voters exceeds 400. If there are less than that number they can sit but one day. The following districts, of which yesterday's registration is given, polled 400 votes, and over, at the last election:

In the Fourteenth Ward, First District, 76; Third District, 79; Fourth District, 50; Fifth District, 69; Sixth District, 64; Seventh District, 17; Eighth District, 8; Ninth District, 44; Tenth District, 25. In the Twentieth Ward, Twenty-second District, 19 votes were registered. In the Twenty-seventh District of the Twenty-second Ward 33 were registered. In the Eighteenth District of the Twelfth Ward 3 names were registered, and 65 in the Tenth District of that Ward, making a total of 535 voters registered yesterday. This gives a total of 23,735 votes registered since Tuesday morning.

Something More About Mayor Hall's Inspectors of Election.

Want of space prevented our giving any of the incidents connected with the compilation of the list of inspectors published in yesterday's issue. On the flat refusal of Mayor HALL and his obedient Chief of the Bureau of Elections, Mr. CORSON, to furnish any information or afford any facilities, we were thrown entirely upon our own resources forobtaining the names. To accomplish this a large corps of reporters were detailed to visit the different polling-places, and their experience was interesting and varied. The tortuous devices resorted to by some of the inspectors to suppress all intelligence, were worthy of the masters upon whom they depend for the satisfaction of the importunities of their stomachs, and their purely othodox Tammany style of telling the truth, reduced the reporters, in their efforts to glean information, almost to despair.

In most of the registering places the most marked inattention to business was manifested. In many instances the whole "Board" left their duties to their fate, and, retiring to neighboring hostelries, put up piteous petitions for strength to enable them to undergo their labors. Some of the Inspectors absented themselves the entire day, and it is stated that they saved $15 "per head" by so doing. Some of the "Boards" adjourned early in the afternoon, and did not reorganize at all, to the great inconvenience of business men, who expected to register in the evening. The Inspectors of the Ninth Election District of the Eighth Ward abandoned their office at an early hour to participate in a grand demonstration held in the Michael Norton Assembly Rooms. In some of the polling places the names of voters were merely scribbled on scraps of paper which the voters were not allowed to read afterward, though they earnestly solicited the favor in order to see if their names had been rightly taken. The few colored men appointed were particularly jubilant, and congratulated each other repeatedly upon the fact that they at last held office. One of them informed a TIMES reporter that the colored inspectors were all indebted to HORACE GREELEY's influence with Mayor HALL for their appointments, and that Mr. GREELEY had attended personally to their interests.

Several of the new appointees appeared to have the most original views as to the extent of the right of suffrage. "This," exclaimed a stout-hearted chieftan of the slungshot order of courage, "this is what is going to carry the City and State of New-York this election; do you mind that, my boy!" and he waived a revolver (probably stolen) before the eyes of an astonished reporter, while he tossed a bullet in the air. Many of them received the reporter's request for their names with a vacant stare, as though they had forgotten them. Some, with the air of being ashamed of them, and not a few brusquely declined to give them, probably through fear of being asked how they were spelled. The interrogatory, "Do you hold any other office under the City Government?" was received in as many varieties of form as there are types of inspectorial nature, but the idea generally conveyed was that a perfect knowledge, whether they did or not, did not lie within the province of reportorial information.

The treatment to which voters were subjected would mark a new era in the history of etiquette. Some of the Inspectors, with vague theories upon the divine right of Kings and unable to clearly distinguish between the assumptions of the one and the duties of the other, wore Lordly and impressive airs, whereof the effect was somewhat impaired by the manifestations of an advanced state of inebriety, though in a measure sustained by the evidence of royal nature as exemplified in the punching of heads. The only marked trait, characteristic of Democratic birth and tastes, lay in the drinking of whisky from the "original package" and the conferring of the distinction "Young Feller," upon all to whom they condescended to address themselves. To not a few of them the open air was a Godsend and an angel's visit, and the better to avail themselves of the short-lived favor, they lounged around the doors of their respective polling places, impregnating the atmosphere with divers foreign odors, and rendering the life of any young girl, luckless enough to be compelled to pass them, perfectly miserable with their attempts to convey an idea of the extent of their admiration through the medium of coughs, sneezes and howls. The inadequate means taken to advertise the location of the polling places reduced some of our residents to the necessity of seeking information at the station-houses of the different precincts. "Why was not this thing so advertised that we might know something about it?" inquired a merchant of a Tammany Sergeant of Police. "'Cause the City aint got no money," was the reply. "Why don't HALL, TWEED, SWEENY & CO., who stole it, do it then?" was the old gentleman's indignant rejoinder as he strode off to be "registered." "We treat these old duffers with all the politeness we can," remarked an inspector, explaining some of his contortions and gyrations to a crowd of awe-stricken followers, "'cause it pulls the wool way down to their chins and makes 'em think we are all right—let's beer." In one or two instances the Inspectors remained at their posts during the entire day, and this in spite of the fact that their offices were located in grog-shops. These gentlemen are entitled to the credit of attending strictly to their business, notwithstanding their exhaustion, which later in the day became so great they could scarcely stand.

As evidence of "how the thing is done," the story of an inspector elected on the Tammany ticket last Fall is interesting. He had never been notified to appear and qualify, and a few days ago was called upon by a messenger with instructions to resign, or some one else would be put in his place. He declined to resign, and reported to the Bureau of Elections for duty. Here he was informed that he was indebted to Alderman PLUNKETT for the attempt to compel him to resign, and was instructed to take his place and perform his duties. Notifications were withheld from many of the elected inspectors, or sent to vacant houses where it was known that no one resided, and the inspectors returned "not found." Some were removed as unsuitable, and others equally so were retained.

The Election Laws—Important Information for Voters.

So many changes have been made in the Election laws, that very few persons know what their rights are under the law as it now stands. Below we give a synopsis of the law, so far as it concerns those who desire to vote at the election on the 7th prox.:

Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for ten days, and for thirty days next preceding the election a resident of the district from which the officer is to be chosen for whom he offers his vote, and an inhabitant of the State one year next preceding any election, and for the last four months a resident of the county where he may offer his vote, is entitled to vote in the election district where he actually resides, and not elsewhere, for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elected by the people.

Whenever a person claiming to vote shall appear to have moved into the State or County or ward or district temporarily, with the intention to remove or without the intention to remain, he is not legally a resident within the meaning of the law. And on the other hand, when he is temporarily absent from his place of residence, with the intention to return, he does not lose his legal residence.

One of the ordinary indicia of a man's legal residence is the place where his family resides. But even this may be overruled by his intention. A man may have separated himself from, or deserted his family, and thus may acquire a legal residence in another county, ward, district, or even State. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence, while employed in the service of the United States, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of his State, or of the United States, or of the high seas; nor while a student of any seminary of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or asylum, or a public prison, at the public expense.

Registers of election must sit from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M. The next days of registry will be Friday and Saturday, the 3d and 4th of November. The law depriving any person who has not registered of his vote has been repealed. On the day of election, in case any elector presents himself who is not registered, the inspector shall require such person to make oath as to the cause of his failure to register, and if the excuse be deemed sufficient by a majority of the inspectors, such elector shall be permitted to vote.

Any person registering in a district in which he is not entitled to vote, or voting or offering to vote in any district in which he is not entitled to do so, or causing or procuring any person to be registered or to vote in any district where he is not entitled to vote, will be adjudged guilty of felony, and on conviction, imprisoned in the State Prison for a term of not less than one nor more than three years.

What Does it Mean?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The registers of the Twenty-second District, Twenty-first Ward, who opened books of registry at No. 592 Sixth-avenue, yesterday, at 9 A. M., through some unaccountable cause, closed the books and retired from their duties before 3 P. M. Scores of voters who called during the afternoon and evening, lost the opportunity to register, and could get no explanation for this strange action of the registers.

What does it mean? VOTER.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Oct. 18, 1871.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

THE HONEST DEMOCRATS.

Tammany Repudiated by the Fourth Judicial District—An Address from Representative Democrats.

At a meeting of representative Democrats of the Fourth Judicial District of the State of New-York, held at Saratoga Springs on the 13th of October, 1871, the following address was unanimously adopted and ordered published:

To the Democratic Electors of the State of New-York:

The action of the Democratic State Convention, held at Rochester on the 4th and 5th inst., unquestionably disappointed a large number of the prominent and leading as well as a larger number of the honest hard-working Democrats throughout the State. It was hoped and believed by honest Democrats everywhere, that there would be sterling integrity enough in the Convention so to shape the acts as well as the resolves of that body, as to effectually and radically purify the party from the taint which the reputed wholesale, unquestioned and unquestionable plundering by New-York officials, prominent in the leadership and counsels of our organization, had brought upon it. The action of the Convention, however, in the disposition of the New-York delegation and in other respects, can in no wise be regarded as effecting that object. In the first day's proceedings, and even before a permanent organization had been perfected, TWEED was permitted to withdraw his delegation, made under the auspices of Tammany Hall, placing upon the records of the Convention a declaration that he did so from considerations of party policy and dictating the immediate passage of the following:

Whereas, No delegation being now present from New-York, having the prestige of regularity or having been elected in conformity with the call of the State Central Committee; therefore,

Resolved, That in the call of the roll New-York be omitted in the future proceedings of this body, and no delegation be received as sitting from that locality.

This whereas and resolution were passed under the pressure of the previous question moved by Mr. DEWITT, the floor manager of TWEED, which of course cut off all debate. In view of the action of the Convention on the second day, it is clear that a large number of delegates—not embracing a majority, however—voted for them without understanding their effect. The plan of operation was concocted in the fertile brain of TWEED, and executed by the drilled army of delegates in the interest of the Tammany canal, prison and printing Rings, who were banded together to save the prestige of Tammany and renominate for candidates the old officers. Tickets of admission were freely issued to the friends of the project, and the hall was filled with clacquers, whose demonstrations of delight and satisfaction at what they were pleased to term the magnanimity of Tammany, produced such an enthusiasm among the members as enabled Mr. DEWITT to introduce and pass the certificate of Tammany's regularity embraced in the foregoing whereas and resolution, before the Convention woke up to the fact that it had not only indorsed Tammany's power and regularity, but had absolutely decided a case of contested seats without even giving a hearing to such contestants.

Having been compromised by this sharp trick of TWEED & Co., the Convention floundered in the meshes of the Ring net for two days, ending in the renomination of the Tammany candidates, with the exception of Mr. NELSON, who declined the honor.

After such renowned leaders as SEYMOUR and CHURCH, realizing their inability to control the Convention for good, had abandoned all hope, the Hon. FRANCIS KERNAN, of Oneida, moved by the high consideration of giving character to the ticket, and to free it, in part at least, from complicity with or responsibility for the acts of corrupt men anywhere, placed before the Convention the name of CHARLES O'CONOR, of New-York, for the office of Attorney-General. Although this nomination of one of the purest as well as the greatest men this country ever produced was supported by the earnest appeals of a KERNAN and a TILDEN, it received, upon a call of the roll of districts, just 42 of the 104 votes cast. It is believed if in the interest of reform the Angel Gabriel had been proposed as a candidate for nomination in the Rochester Convention, he would have been awarded precisely the number of votes cast for Mr. O'CONOR.

The Democracy expected, and had a right to expect from this Convention, better things—both in respect of its disposition of Tammany and its nominations.

What the honest masses asked of this Convention was a perfect and radical purification of the party from the control and taint of Ring influence. No amount of sophistry in the shape of buncombe resolutions and newspaper editorials condemning fraud in high-sounding phrases, will, in our judgment, convince the honest Democracy of this State that anything has been accomplished by this Convention tending to elevate the character or preserve the purity of the party. It is quite too apparent that its whereases and resolutions pointed in the direction of reform, while its acts were entirely consistent with the present and future control of the Tammany canal and other corrupt Rings now plundering the people of their hard earnings. Tammany was permitted to retire—glorified and applauded for its magnanimity—leaving behind it upon the records of the Convention evidence of its own regularity and right to participate in the deliberations of the Convention, side by side with a resolution disfranchising at Tammany's dictation the great Metropolis of the State, having a right to cast twenty-one of the 128 votes.

In perfect harmony and consistency with this action a ticket was nominated.

With the exception of Secretary of State, every man upon that ticket was born politically, of ring influence, and some of them, we fear, are participators in Ring profits.

We need not in this section of the State, and more particularly in the immediate vicinity of the canals, call the attention of the electors to the renomination of GEO. W. CHAPMAN for Canal Commissioner, with a view of elevating the standard of party purity and drawing to it the support of honest men. It is well known that this nomination which affects more especially this section of the State, was not called for or expected by the tax-payers or business men along the line of the Eastern division, which is under his personal control and supervision.

Under the administration of this officer an examination of canal expenditures will show whether—putting the case mildly—a system of extravagance and lavish expenditure of the people's money has grown to gigantic proportions, and to perpetuate this administration of affairs canal officials have interfered with, and we believe we should be warranted in stating, have controlled and packed delegations in many localities favorable to the renomination of Mr. CHAPMAN. In fact, we believe the canal machinery has been run with such disregard of the public interest, and such regard for private interest, as to make its administration a stench in the nostrils of right-minded men, and damaging to the party responsible for it. Whether Mr. CHAPMAN is personally dishonest is a question not here necessary to raise. He stands, however, in the same relation to his employes and subordinates as Mayor HALL to his, and if he permits, either through ignorance or design, extravagance or dishonesty on the part of those he can control, he is for all political purposes as responsible as though personally corrupt, and a proper subject therefore for condemnation at the polls. But we need not to particularize. All the nominees, with the exception of Mr. WILLERS, emanate from the same source, and their appearance upon the ticket is one of the prominent acts of the Convention which shows the unmistakable hand of the Rings and the mortifying fact that the great Democratic Party of the Empire State is not emancipated by the action of the Rochester Convention.

Mr. SAMUEL J. TILDEN, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, declared upon the floor of the Convention his determination to vote against the Ring candidates for members of the Senate and Assembly. If this high and trusted leader of the party, who deservedly enjoys its confidence, may thus take the responsibility of doing a just and honest act by thus voting against the nominees of corrupt regularity, to the end that ultimate good may come of it, where is the treason to party in more humble Democrats, with kindred objects in view, following his example?

LOCAL POLITICS.

Address of the Republican State Committee of New-Jersey.

The Republican State Committee of New-Jersey have issued an address to the electors, in which they ask their support, on the grounds that the Republican Party has been the consistent defender of equal rights, personal liberty and free government; that it has successfully defended the Government against the assaults of those who sought to subvert it, and that it has brought back peace and prosperity without financial disaster; that it has faithfully collected and applied the revenues, while taxation has been lightened and the national debt diminished, and that under its fostering care internal improvements have been made on a scale unexampled in the history of nations; that it has given its sympathy and support to every effort abroad to resist assaults of despotism; that it has commenced the work of reform in the civil service, and that it has faithfully redeemed all its pledges.

The Ledwith Slander—Letter from the Judge.

The following letter from Judge LEDWITH, in regard to the statement that he had deserted the Reform Party and sold himself to Tammany, speaks for itself:

NO. 111 NASSAU-STREET, NEW-YORK, Oct. 18, 1871.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the New-York Sun of this date I find an article headed "Ledwith Bought Off," which seems to intimate that a corrupt bargain, involving my personal and political integrity, had been entered into between Tammany Hall and myself, to result in my nomination by that organization for the office of "Supreme Court Justice."

Ordinarily I should not be inclined to answer charges made without authority, but, in times like these, I feel it my duty to place myself properly before the people of this City. While it is true that many citizens, irrespective of party, as well as members of the different political organizations (Tammany Hall included,) have tendered me their support for the office of Supreme Court Justice, if I should be a candidate, I pronounce the charge, or insinuation, that I have made any bargain or entered into any compact or agreement whatever with Tammany Hall or its leaders, looking to my nomination for any office, or compromising my position in the ranks of the Reform Party, to be utterly groundless and without the least foundation in truth. I trust that my consistent record as an opponent of fraud and corruption in our Municipal Government, and my well-known attachment to the purposes and measures of the honest reform movement, will set at rest any and all future slanders or attacks of this nature. I owe my political position to the people, and I intend to stand by them at all hazards.

Yours truly, THOS. A. LEDWITH.

JOHN McCOOL, who was mentioned in connection with the Ledwith slander, has issued a card, declaring it entirely without foundation and malicious.

Democratic Reform Senatorial Conventions.

The Democratic Reform Party held Senatorial Conventions in five Wards last evening. The only nomination made was that of Ex-Sheriff O'BRIEN, who was unanimously nominated as Senator for the Seventh District. Below we give the result of the Conventions:

The Democratic Reform Senatorial Convention of the Fourth District met at the Vanderbilt Hotel, last evening, but several delegates being absent, the Convention adjourned to Wednesday next, when it will meet at No. 163 Hudson-street.

The Democratic Reform Senatorial Convention of the Fifth District met at No. 71 Eighth-avenue, Mr. J. C. HAVEMEYER presiding. Among those present were Messrs. Van Schaick, Peter Mitchell, W. C. Gibson, David S. Page, J. F. Horton, Van Wart, Thos. L. Snead, Benjamin Wood and J. L. Babbett. On motion of Mr. MITCHELL, the nomination of candidates was postponed until Saturday next, and a committee of two from each Ward appointed to confer with the Committee of Seventy.

The Senatorial Convention for the Sixth District met at No. 625 East Fifth-street, but postponed the nomination of candidates until to-morrow evening.

The delegates to the Seventh Senatorial Democratic Reform Convention met last evening at Washington Hall in Broadway, near Thirty-eighth-street. The meeting was very respectable as to numbers and intensely enthusiastic. The Convention was called to order by Judge BARRETT, who, in a few remarks, nominated Hon. WM. E. CURTIS for Chairman, who was elected unanimously, as also were Messrs. PETER GILSEY and JAMES F. KEEGAN, Secretaries. On motion of Mr. SAMUEL G. COURTNEY, JAMES O'BRIEN, Esq., was nominated for Senator. A committee of five, consisting of Messrs. Wm. E. Curtis, W. C. Barrett, Peter Gilsey, Dr. Keinback, J. Boese, J. F. Keegan and W. C. Lawrence, was appointed to notify the nominee of the fact, and another committee was appointed to arrange for a mass-meeting to ratify the nomination. The first-named committee proceeded to Apollo Hall, where Mr. O'BRIEN was found busily at work, but on consultation it was decided to announce the nomination in writing.

The Eighth Senatorial District Convention met at Brevoort Hall, in East Fifty-fourth-street. No candidates were nominated. A committee of fifteen was appointed to confer with outside organizations in relation to the nomination of candidates, and the meeting then adjourned to Friday evening next.

The German Joint Committee—A Mass-Meeting to be Held Next Week.

The German Joint Committees, Democratic and Republican, held a meeting at the Germania Hall, on Third-avenue, last evening. Mr. OSWALD OTTENDORFER presided.

After a brief debate, in which Messrs. GROSS, KAUFMANN, Alderman SCHLICHTING, Dr. BERKMANN, Dr. GERKE and others participated, a resolution was passed that a committee be appointed to prepare a platform and resolutions to be submitted to a mass-meeting, subject to the approval of the Joint Committee.

It was decided to hold the mass-meeting in the course of next week.

Conference of Committees of Anti-Tammany Democrats.

The Committees of Conference appointed by the Reform Democracy, the Regular (Young) Democracy, and the Roosevelt wing of the Democratic Union Party, met last evening at Apollo Hall, had a lengthened conference in relation to a common basis of action against Tammany and the claims of the respective organizations to recognition in the nominations to be made. The result of the conference will not be made public until the Committees report to their several organizations.

Democratic Union General Committee.

The members of the Democratic Union General Committee assembled last evening at Masonic Hall, ROBERT B. ROOSEVELT in the chair. After some desultory discussion, on motion of Mr. NELSON J. WATERBURY, a committee of one from each ward was appointed to confer with other Anti-Tammany organizations with a view to agreeing upon a ticket for the coming election.

☞ The Republican Primaries.

The Republicans who acknowledge the action of the State Committee as binding and the Central Committee, of which Mr. TOWNSEND is President, as their head, held last night their primaries in the various Assembly Districts for the election of delegates to the County, Senatorial and Assembly Conventions, and in some cases to Assistant Aldermanic and School Conventions. Everything passed off quietly.

Political Brevities.

The colored Republican voters of Flushing met Tuesday night at the Bethel Church and organized a colored Republican Club.

JOHN D. BUCKALEW has been nominated for Senator by the Republicans of Middlesex County, New-Jersey.

The Mercer County, New-Jersey, Democratic Convention was held at Princeton yesterday afternoon. CHARLES V. MEADE was nominated for Senator.

Gov. RANDOLPH, of New-Jersey, has issued a proclamation offering a reward of $100 for the conviction of any person who violates the provisions of the Bribery act.

The Democrats of Westchester County held a Convention at White Plains, yesterday, and nominated for County Judge WM. H. PEMBERTON, of Mt. Vernon.

The Eighteenth Ward James O'Brien Association met last night at No. 433 East Fourteenth-street, and addresses were delivered in support of Mr. O'BRIEN as Senator.

The St. Patrick's Mutual Alliance Senatorial Conventions met last evening in the several districts, and adjourned without making any nominations.

In the Seventeenth Ward an association was organized last night under the name of "The Real Estate Owners of the Seventeenth Ward," having for its object opposition to Tammany candidates.

Hon. WM. A. RUSSELL has been nominated for the Senate by the Democrats of the Twelfth District—Washington and Rensselaer counties.

SAMUEL W. JACKSON, of Tchenectady, was yesterday nominated for Justice of Supreme Court by the Democratic Convention for the Fourth Judicial District.

THE WISCONSIN FIRES.

One Thousand Killed and Three Thousand Destitute.

A List of Names of Three Hundred of the Victims—An Appeal from the Governor of Wisconsin — The Sufferings Not Exaggerated.

Gov. FAIRCHILD, of Wisconsin, has issued the following address to the people of his State, describing the extent of the calamitous fires there, and making an appeal for aid that should be heard not only within the borders of Wisconsin:

GREEN BAY, Oct. 13.

To the People of Wisconsin:

The accounts of the appalling calamity which has fallen upon the east and west shores of Green Bay have not been exaggerated. The burned district comprises the counties of Oconto, Brown, Door, and Kewaunee, and parts of Manitowoc and Outagamie. The great loss of life and property has resulted from the whirlwind of fire which swept over the country, making the roads and avenues of escape impassable with fallen timber and burned bridges. The previous long drouth had prepared everything for the flames. The loss of life has been very great. The first estimates were entirely inadequate, and even now it is feared that it is much greater than present accounts place it. It is known that at least 1,000 persons have been either burned, drowned or smothered. Of these deaths, 600 or more were at Peshtigo and adjacent places, and the others in Door, Kewaunee and Brown Counties. Men are now penetrating that almost inaccessible region for the purpose of affording relief, and I fear that their reports will increase this estimate. From the most reliable sources of information I learn that not less than 3,000 men, women and children have been rendered entirely destitute. Mothers are left with fatherless children, fathers with motherless children, children are left homeless orphans. Distress and intense suffering are on every hand, where but a few days ago were comfort and happiness. Scores of men, women and little children now lie helpless. They are burned and maimed, in temporary hospitals, cared for by more fortunate neighbors. These suffering people must be supplied with food, bedding, clothing, feed for their cattle, and the means of providing shelter during the Winter. The response by the good people of Wisconsin has already been prompt and generous. It is meeting the immediate need, and is being faithfully and energetically distributed through the relief organizations at Green Bay, but provision must be made for months in the future. There are wanted flour, salt, and cured meats not cooked, blankets, bedding, stoves, baled hay, building materials, lights, farming implements and tools, boots, shoes and clothing for men, women and children, log chains, axes with handles, nails, glass and house trimmings, and, indeed, everything needed by a farming community that has lost everything.

To expedite the transfers at Green Bay all boxes should have cards attached to them, stating their contents, and all supplies should be sent to the Relief Committee at Green Bay. Money contributed should not be converted into supplies, but should be forwarded to the Committee. Depots have been established at Green Bay, under the management of a committee of public-spirited and energetic men, who have the confidence of all, for the receiving and dispatching of supplies. They have organized a system of sub depots contiguous to the burned regions, and steam-boats and wagons are being sent out with supplies. Let us uphold their hands in the good work, and see that their depots be kept filled to overflowing. It is fortunate that we live in a wealthy and prosperous State, blessed with prosperity in business and overflowing harvests, and that thus we are, by a wise Providence, endowed with the means to help our less fortunate neighbors.

I am urged by public-spirited citizens of the State to call an immediate extra session of the Legislature to provide for this calamity. I have given serious attention to this suggestion, and have concluded not to do so, for the reason that the expense of such a session would be likely to equal the amount which the State would be asked to contribute. Believing, therefore, that the people and the Legislature will indorse my action in this emergency, I have, in conjunction with the State Treasurer, decided to advance such a moderate sum of money as seems to be appropriate, in addition to that contributed.

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD,
Governor of the State of Wisconsin.

The Death List Hourly Increasing—Names of Three Hundred of the Unfortunates.

From the Milwaukee Sentinel, Oct. 14.

From D. NICHOLS, who has just returned from Peshtigo, we have obtained a list of 300 who are now known to have perished in the terrible conflagration which a week ago literally consumed that village and surrounding country. More remains are being found every day by parties engaged in searching for them. Many bodies are so disfigured by the fire that they cannot be identified. A large number were, undoubtedly, completely consumed, no relic of the bodies being left to mark the place where they fell on that awful night. Others are still in the water, and cannot be recovered till they rise to the surface. The list is as follows:

L. H. Hill and wife, Augusta Barket, John Jackson, J. Law, Lucien McPherson, two children of Samuel Newton, George Penerie, Al. Penerie, Charles Penerie, wife and child, Terrence Kelly and child, Fred. Seymour, Charlotte Seymour, Charles Bush, wife and six children, Jack Taylor, wife and two children, Pat. Lawrence, and family, six persons; Robert King and family, six persons; Nathaniel May, wife and child; Wm. Aldis, wife and two children; Chas. Chapman, wife and child; Glous family; Hiram Moore, wife and five children; Halsey Fletcher and wife; Lindsay Loucks and wife; Joseph La Fave and family, five persons; Florence Lessiours; Edwin Lessiours; A. A. Pratt, wife and two children; Mrs. Rebecca Hays and babe; Mrs. Wm. Penerie and child; Mrs. Wm. Eamer; Mrs. Charlotte Bell; Mrs. J. J. Tanner and two children; Martin Fagin, wife and two children; child of Frank Jacobs; son and daughter of James Mellen; Jas. Kerr; Enoch Hoyt, wife and son; Lyman Seigers, wife and child; Chas. Plush; Mr. England, wife and children; John E. Beebe, wife and three children; Miss Nellie Marshall; Charles Westfall, wife and father; Charles Helm, wife and son; Mrs. Wilson Still, died since the fire; child of A. Kroesle; Mrs. Silas McMynn; Mrs. Michael Cramer and three children; Roger Burton; Nelson Loucks and family; Leach family; Mrs. Jas. Clements; P. Monegan John Van Ryzinger; Ernst Kutzner; Wm. Soper; John Ellsworth, wife and child; Mrs. Tackman.

To one visiting the locality after the fire, the great wonder is not that so many people should have perished, but that a single individual remains to describe the fearful scene through which he passed. Certainly no one of the few that did escape expect d anything but certain destruction at the time. Several families sought refuge in a large boarding-house, but it quickly took fire and burned. A few of the inmates succeeded in reaching the river. Many were burned in their flight, and a mother was consumed in the building with her five children, which she would not desert. Mr. BEEBEE and his family were at the store and attempted to flee to the water, which was only half a dozen rods distant, but all perished in the scorching flames except a little boy. Several, seeing the hopelessness of escape, in their desperation attempted to take their own lives. Many families became separated in the general confusion that followed the first alarm, and those that survived suffered the most intense anxiety concerning the fate of the others. Some, gaining a secure position, afterward lost their lives in their vain search for their friends. A family from the East was visiting with Mr. MAY, and the whole of both families were burned up together.

Many who were saved owe their lives to the exertion of others who were near them, and a score of heroic deeds were narrated to us. In contrast with this we heard of human hyenas who prowled over the ground as soon as the danger of the storm was past, plundering the dead and helpless. Can human depravity ever find a better illustration? There are other tales of suffering and anguish told of that terrible night that are too harrowing to write or think of. Verily, the Peshtigo horror will long be remembered.

Government Aid for the Sufferers by Fire in Wisconsin.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Judge BARRON, Fifth Auditor of the Treasury, returned today from a visit to his home in Wisconsin. He says the published reports of the wide-spread destitution and suffering in that region, caused by the terrible fires, are in no respect exaggerated, and that, indeed, no accounts can give an adequate idea of the frightful extent of the calamity. The loss to the lumbering interest in destruction of mills, &c., is immense, but not, however, irreparable, as the pine forests are still generally left standing, though stripped by fire of their lighter branches and foliage.

The Secretary of War has authorized Gen. SHERIDAN to afford such relief as may be in his power to the sufferers by the fires in Michigan and Wisconsin.

A Mystery at Bloomfield — Probable Double Murder.

Yesterday morning two women, the wife and daughter of FREDERICK FILLMAN, a pump-maker at Bloomfield, were discovered, the one dying and the other dead, under circumstances which lead to the suspicion that they had been poisoned. FILLMAN, with his wife, daughter and a man named GOTLEIF PERSIVER, live in a little house near the Presbyterian church. The men slept together on the lower floor, and arose at 6½ o'clock, but found that neither of the women had yet appeared. FILLMAN went up-stairs to see what the difficulty was, and found his daughter dead upon her bed, the mother lying across her in an insensible condition. Suspicion attaches to the husband, but no arrest has yet been made.

Chicago Pluck—Messrs. J. Bauer & Co.

It is a pleasure to learn from a reliable source that, while the enterprising house of BAUER & Co., of Chicago and New-York, has sustained a severe loss in the destruction of their extensive piano-forte ware-rooms, which adjoined the Crosby Opera-house, their business will go on uninterruptedly, owing to the enormous facilities of the New-York branch, No. 650 Broadway. Their heavy stock of pianos and band instruments, destroyed in Chicago, will be replaced by complete consignments from the Metropolitan establishment, and probably before this item meets our readers Messrs. JULIUS and HERMANN BAUER will have begun opening their new invoices in their temporary new quarters, No. 270 Michigan-avenue. Arrangements for rebuilding their marble store have already been made with characteristic energy, and doubtless a few months will see the young firm again handsomely housed and pursuing fresh paths of prosperity.—Season.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The attendance at the Exchange, yesterday, (Oct. 18,) was again quite large, and the interest manifested in the proceedings, as shown the day before, fully maintained. The following is a summary of the business transacted:

S. DINGEE, at public auction, sold a three-story high-stoop brick house and lot, located on the south side of Twenty-third-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, known as No. 360, for $27,500; purchaser, W. S. HASCALL. The lot sold is in size 25 by 98.9, and the house the same front by 56 feet in depth.

JOSEPH MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court in foreclosure, under the direction of D. S. INGRAHAM, Jr., Esq., referee, disposed of the premises No. 520 Delancey-street, embracing a five-story and cellar brick tenement-house (with stores) and lot, the latter 25 by 75, for $19,500, which was considered a low figure. The property is located on the north side of the street, between Pitt and Ridge streets, and was purchased by FREDERICK ENDRES.

JAMES M. MILLER, under a Supreme Court order in foreclosure, RICHARD C. BEAMISH, Esq., referee, sold a lot, 26.9 by 98.9, on the south side of Thirty-eighth-street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues, for $4,750. On the premises a cellar has been excavated, and the foundation for a building partly constructed. The mortgage foreclosed in the suit in question amounted to $2,400, with a year's interest and costs. The property was bought by JAMES WATSON, the plaintiff. The other legal sale, under the direction of the same auctioneer, at which it was announced a house and lot on Fortieth-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, would be offered, did not take place, the suit involving the title to the same having been settled.

The business of the day at the Exchange closed with a stock sale, conducted by MULLER, WILKINS & CO., at which the following securities were sold at the percentage prices noted: Eleven shares National City Bank, (ex-dividend,) par $100 each, sold at 221 per cent.; eighteen shares Merchants' National Bank, par $50 each, 115½; twenty-seven shares Bank of New York National Banking Association, par $100 each, 130; eighteen shares Sixth-avenue Railroad Company, par $100 each, 135; twenty shares Grand-street and Forty-second-street Railroad Company, (ex-dividend,) par $100 each, 110; sixteen shares Metropolitan Gas-light Company, par $100 each, 205; and thirty shares Land Improvement Scrip of New Jersey Central Railroad Company, par $100 each, sold at 69.

The sale of suburban property at Yonkers, Westchester County, held on Tuesday by JOHNSON & MILLER was, as stated yesterday, an unqualified success. 100 acres of land belonging to the Blackwell estate located on Broadway in the town named, sold at the rate of $1,250 per acre, the aggregate of the sale reaching $125,000. Great interest was felt in reference to the transaction, for as it was known that the lots offered were in all respects first-class, the prices realized were looked for as a test of values. The result has fully justified the estimate placed upon the realty prior to the auction, and to a certain extent fixes the value of Westchester real estate in this section of the county. Details of the sale will be found below. The principal purchasers of lots were as follows: F. M. Currie, J. H. Brainard, William Gubbuns, F. W. Williams, Mary Williams, James Curtis, James Moore and J. Delehante, of this City; Abram Lowerre and E. Bergen, of Brooklyn; James McCarn and Thomas Maher, of Hastings; J. J. Coffee, Thomas Coyle, W. Underhill, J. T. Grashon, A. P. Speedling, John Lewis, John R. Curtis, Patrick Callahan and John T. Waring, of Yonkers.

At Tottenville, Staten Island, on Tuesday, JAMES M. MILLER, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of ROBERT SUTHERLAND, Esq., referee, sold a farm, comprising fifty acres of land, located near Seguin Point, for $8,800. Purchased by the Commissioners of Emigration of this State for Quarantine uses.

Today, at the Exchange, a number of auctions are expected to occur, the most important of which are the following sales by MULLER, WILKINS & CO., of property belonging to the New-York Warehousing Company, located in Brooklyn, embracing sixty-five lots of land, with eight large brick store-houses thereon, three piers, a bulkhead and water right. Also, by same firm, valuable property on Sixth-avenue and on West Twenty-ninth and West Thirty-third streets, in this City. By JAMES M. MILLER, under a Supreme Court order, fifty unimproved City lots and gores, and by A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO., real estate on West Twenty-sixth-street. The suburban sales to take place today are also numerous and worthy attention, as should the weather prove pleasant, auctions will be conducted as follows: At Orange, N. J., by R. R. HAZARD, Jr., sixty-three lots in Orange Valley and thirty-three lots on Orange Mountain. Sale on the ground at 11 A. M. Special train from foot of Barclay and Christopher streets, via ferries, at 10 o'clock. At Inglewood, Queens County, by JOHNSON & MILLER, 300 lots; sale on the ground at 12 M.; special train via James-slip and Thirty-fourth-street Ferries, at 11 o'clock. At Alturas, Rockland County, by S. E. OGDEN, resumed sale of People's College lots; sale on premises at 12 M.; special train from foot of Chambers-street, via ferry and Northern New-Jersey Railroad, at 9 o'clock. And at Newark, N. J., by SCHULTHEIS & HENNING, 300 lots; sale on the property at 1 o'clock.

At private sale WM. H. RAYNOR, No. 5½ Pine-street, with the assistance of Mr. J. R. BROWN, reports having recently sold 101 lots on Seventy-second, Seventy-third and Seventy-fourth streets, between First-avenue and the East River, for $201,000. An advance of $20,000 on the purchase, it is stated, has, since the consummation of the sale, been refused.

THE YACHT RACE.

Another Victory for the American Yacht Columbia.

The Livonia Defeated on the Open Course—Forty Miles in Three Hours—The Quickest Race on Record.

The second of the series of international contests for the possession of the Queen's Cup was sailed yesterday, and resulted in another victory for the American yacht Columbia. As the race was to be over an open course starting from Sandy Hook Light-ship, it was necessary to make an early start, and consequently the Committee steamer William Fletcher left the foot of Desbrosses-street about 7:40 A. M. The Livonia, Dauntless and Palmer went out to the Horseshoe on Tuesday evening, stopped there all night, and got under way for the Light-ship about 8¾ A. M. The Columbia left her anchorage off Quarantine, S. I., shortly after 5 A. M. yesterday morning, and in company with the Dreadnaught, which was towed as far as the Quarantine Hospital, sailed slowly along in the direction of the Light-ship, propelled by a light breeze dead aft. There was considerable speculation during the morning as to which vessel would be selected by the Committee to represent the New-York Yacht Club. It was generally expected that if the weather should prove favorable the Dauntless would be given the honor. As the day advanced the breeze was still very light, and the water barely broken. The Columbia arrived off the Light-ship about 10:40, and found the tug Lackawanna lying alongside, waiting for orders as to the direction in which she was to steam, in order to officiate as stake-boat. The Fletcher arrived shortly afterward, followed by the Dauntless, which looked in magnificent trim, and had up a very large foregaff-topsail, that set like a board. The Livonia and Palmer came up about fifteen minutes later, and in the meanwhile the Committee of five held a session in the Fletcher's pilot-house. They were not very long in making their decision, and hailing the Columbia as she went by, bade her prepare to start. This announcement was received with decided surprise as the breeze had now freshened considerably, and was blowing a ten-knot hummer from the west north-west, quite sufficient to test the sailing qualities of any yacht, and as the Dauntless was in readiness everybody supposed she would go. The selection of the Columbia left the impression on the general public that with such a breeze they did not care to run any risks by selecting the Dauntless, and preferred falling back on the tried and reliable Columbia. As Rear-Commodore OSGOOD was not prepared to go, he sent on board the Dauntless, and borrowed eight of their crew, as he was short-handed. The stake-boat Lackawanna started about 10¾, in an east north-east course, to steam twenty miles, which would give the competing yachts a free run before the wind and a beat back. The steamer Magenta arrived about 11 A. M., with a full cargo of passengers, to witness the race. About half an hour was lost before the Committee, at 11:52, lowered the flag on board the Fletcher as a signal to prepare, and five minutes afterward hoisted it and blew their whistle. As it was a flying start, the yachts had twenty minutes within which time to cross the line between the Committee-boat and the Light-ship. The Livonia was the first to pay off before the wind, and with mainsail, foresail, main and fore-gaff topsails, staysail, jib, flying jib and jib topsails set, bore away for the Light-ship. The Columbia followed about a couple of minutes later with the same canvass set. There was now a spanking breeze and every prospect of a glorious race. The yachts crossed the line between the Fletcher and the Light-ship as follows:

	H.	M.	S.
Livonia, Commodore Jas. Ashbury	12	3	21½
Columbia, Rear-Commodore F. Osgood	12	5	36¼

The course was east north-east. There was a good ten-knot breeze, and both boats heeled gracefully over under the cloud of canvas they had stretched, dashing the spray from their bows, and leaving a long line of silvery foam in their wake, which was glistening bright in the rays of the morning sun. The Palmer and Dauntless followed on behind, with the Dreadnaught away to leeward, and the Tarolinta coming along behind on her starboard quarter. The Fletcher and Magenta followed at a respectful distance, and had hard work to keep up with these two flyers, which were making a good twelve knots an hour. It was a beautiful sight to watch these two representatives of the nautical architecture of the greatest naval Powers in the world, each perfect in its respective model, and furnished with every equipment and invention that modern art has brought to light, cutting through the gently-rippling sea in their struggle for supremacy. On this point of sailing there was very little difference between the Columbia and Livonia, and the most practical eye could hardly detect a gain for either vessel. The breeze still kept freshening, and both vessels dashed through the water with remarkable velocity; in fact there has not been a better breeze to test the sailing qualities of a yacht this year. The outside division were keeping up pretty well, but the Palmer appeared to be getting the best of the Dauntless, who was about on a par with the Dreadnaught. About 12½ both yachts were sailing remarkably fast, and they had as much wind as they could carry with their kites set, which was clearly demonstrated a few minutes after, when the staysail sheet of the Columbia parted with a report like the explosion of a pistol. All hands were alive in a moment, and down came the staysail on deck with a lively will, and the parted rope was soon taken out along the main boom and reefed again. This slight accident, however, did not materially affect her speed, as the gaff topsail drew considerably better now that it had no back wind from the staysail. The Commodore, however, was not satisfied, and soon sent the staysail up again. Shortly afterward the stake-boat came in sight, and the two yachts changed position as the Columbia ran down a little to leeward to the Livonia, which held to her original course. The breeze had now got very fresh, and, as they were coming up to the stake-boat, the Columbia took in her staysail, a manœuvre which the Livonia soon followed. Following up behind, the Palmer was doing very well, and the Dreadnaught and Dauntless were luffing up every now and then, as if they had as much wind as was good for them. At 1¼ the Columbia took in her balloon-jib and set her working-jib. As both the yachts came up toward the stake-boat it became apparent how close a race it was, although the Columbia had certainly gained over a minute on the run down. It was a magnificent sight as they both came round the stake-boat. The Livonia was first at 1:20, and jibed her main boom, while the Columbia came shooting in between her and the stake-boat at 1:21:40, and tacking, took the windward position. As she came round all hands worked lively, and down came the big fore gaff-topsail and flying jib. A few minutes afterward they took in the large main-topsail. The race had now become very interesting, and it was certainly a fair trial of the respective sailing qualities of both vessels, as they could not have a better breeze. There was just as much as they could manage with four sails. The Livonia still kept her topsails set, but took in her flying-jib. When the Columbia had got well down to her work, it soon became apparent that, by the wind, the Englishman had not the slightest chance, as the former was both head-reaching and out-pointing her. The Livonia, finding the breeze still freshening, took in her big jib and set a smaller one. The Dauntless, Dreadnaught and Palmer turned round and followed after the contestants, with the evident intention of trying what they could go by the wind with the Englishman. The Dauntless got into trouble taking in some of her kites, and started for home. The Palmer was doing pretty well, followed by the Dreadnaught, who was also sailing remarkably well, and proving herself a yacht of no ordinary calibre. About 2 P. M. the Columbia was about half a mile off the weather-bow of the Livonia, and the breeze was rapidly increasing. At 2:04 the Columbia took in her flying-jib, and only just in time, as a minute later it began to blow in earnest, but as the squall struck her she stood it nobly, and stood up as stiff as a three-decker. When it caught the Livonia she behaved well, but as she found it increasing, she took in her maintop-sail and left all others standing. The outside division now began to take in their kites, and the Dreadnaught stowing her flying-jib, the Palmer followed suit by taking in both her topsails. By this time it was blowing a regular topgallant-sail breeze, and the Englishman was certainly doing remarkably well. As the breeze freshened the sea also came up and the white caps danced merrily over the surface of the water, but notwithstanding the forebodings of would-be yachting savants, the Columbia did not labor, and proved herself to be the best yacht afloat. Her antagonist was in no wise to be despised, and the fresher it blew the better she proved herself. The Columbia, finding the gale still increasing, and having a good lead, chose to run no risks, and took in her foresail, leaving her under-jib and mainsail. Under this canvas, however, with the main-sheet slackened out a few feet, she was humming along at about the rate of fourteen knots an hour. The Palmer was still doing very fairly and closing up with the Livonia, and the Dreadnaught was sticking to her weather quarter. The gale was still freshening, and every now and then the yachts would bow their heads and luff up to receive the blasts of rude Boreas with meek submission. Henceforward let no man say the Columbia is not a heavy-weather boat. At 2:11 the Livonia split her jib, and taking in the fragments, set a smaller one, but stuck to her fore-topsail with determined pertinacity. The Palmer now began to find the breeze a little too fresh for her general welfare, and taking in her foresail, began to point toward home. The Dreadnaught was still carrying on a good deal of canvas, but would every now and then bow her head to the force of the elements. About 2:22 the wind still freshening, and the Livonia sailing very well and satisfactorily enunciating the problem about the weatherly boats they build on the other side. The Columbia let out a little main-sheet, and still kept a steady lead, although the Englishman hung about a quarter of a mile off her quarter, as if she was glued there. The Light-ship was still out of sight, and in order to keep well up to windward the Columbia took in the slack of her main-sheet and set a single-reefed fore-sail. The extra canvas soon began to demonstrate its value, and barring accidents, Britannia was fairly beaten. At 2:33 the Columbia sighted the Light-ship about three points on her lee bow, and immediately slacking off all her sheets, let her have it. She behaved well and stood up to the gale nobly, but rushed through the water at a terrific pace, shutting out all remaining hopes of this race for the Livonia. The Dreadnaught meanwhile hauled up on the wind and started on a homeward journey, but not before she had proved herself, in the eyes of all yachtsmen, to be one of the best vessels sailing under the New-York Yacht Club colors. Now that they had altered their course and were running a couple of points free, they set their flying-jib on board the Columbia, which helped to lift her over the rapidly-increasing waves. The steamer Magenta, well laden with excursionists, was still accompanying the yachts, and her Captain certainly gave his guests an excellent view of the finest race this season, without getting in the way of the competing vessels. Now that the body of the Light-ship loomed fairly up on the horizon, and the race was drawing to a close, the excitement advanced to fever heat, and, finding the Livonia still hung on her old position, they gave the Columbia all she could take, and this representative vessel proved that she could stand wind and sea as well as any boat afloat. Both the yachts still kept on their race for victory, and the elements lent their aid. Each moment only lessened the hopes of the Livonia, and when at last the Columbia shot across the line between the Fletcher and the Light-ship, the winner of one of the greatest yacht races on record, the enthusiasm which burst forth from the spectators and saluted the victor was gallantly re-echoed when the noble antagonist shot by some three minutes later. The victory was nobly won. The official time of the contesting yachts was as follows:

	Arrival. H.	M.	S.	Actual time. H.	M.	S.
Columbia	3	6	46¼	3	1	10
Livonia	3	9	06¼	3	5	45

Making the Columbia win by about eight minutes with time allowance. The yachts had a hard time coming home, as it blew a gale of wind right in their teeth. The third race will be sailed to-morrow over the New-York course.

HOME
INSURANCE COMPANY,
No. 135 Broadway, New-York.

This Company had, and still has, an agency in Chicago, and is now paying its losses there as promptly as the same can be adjusted. When these are all paid, the HOME'S assets will exceed those of any other New-York company.

Furthermore, the Board of Directors has unanimously resolved to call upon the Stockholders at the earliest practical moment for enough additional capital to restore its assets to nearly $4,000,000 after every Chicago claim is fully satisfied. Will this not furnish ample indemnity to all seeking insurance, and is not that Company entitled to confidence and support which thus, like "THE HOME," stands in the breach and fully protects many sufferers in the Chicago calamity, instead of boasting that it has no share in such a disaster?

Misrepresentations of the Company are in circulation by interested parties, especially brokers (to whom this Company pays no commission, preferring to deal directly with its customers;) but any statements reflecting upon the solvency of THE HOME are wholly untrue, as the officers or any member of the Board of Directors will be happy to explain, if called upon in person.
